

Heil Ready to Map Drive to Help Farmers

Will Call Meeting Next Month for Coordinated Plan PROFIT IS AIM

Uncertain About Continuation of Agricultural Authority

Madison—(P)—Governor-elect Julius P. Heil said today he would call a meeting early in January to formulate a co-ordinated campaign to sell Wisconsin farm produce all over the nation.

The governor's decision was made as he studied the budget request of the LaFollette-created Wisconsin agricultural authority at the hearings in the state capital.

He told Wilbur Carlson, department head, he would ask the department of agriculture and markets, the department of commerce, the WAA and other agencies to meet with him soon after inauguration.

Turning to his newly-appointed executive secretary, W. C. Maas, Milwaukee, who attended today's hearing, Heil said:

"Make a memo to call these agencies and publicity departments in right after Jan. 1 for a council of war to see what we can do for the farmer. We must formulate a plan and then carry it to a successful conclusion. We must make a profit for the farmer."

Against Duplications
Spiking rumors that the WAA would be scrapped when the Republicans take over the state administration, Heil said he "could not say whether he would recommend to the legislature that the department be cut off."

"What I am trying to do is to get various departments together. This running a half-dozen side-shows never gets us anywhere. There are so many duplications of effort. I am a great believer in advertising and merchandising, but I want to do it at a profit to the farmer. I cannot tax him if he doesn't make any money," Heil said.

At the present time the WAA is cooperating with the department of agriculture and markets in promoting markets for state farm products. Heil has claimed previously that work should also be a task of the department of commerce.

Heil has been openly critical of the commerce department's value at previous hearings. Today he said:

"I still don't know what the commerce department means. It should sell all the wares of the state. I am afraid we will have to take it to the supreme court to analyze the department's functions. They are all nice men, but I understand they are out gathering statistics."

Carlson said promotion of Wisconsin peas has been rewarded with highly desired results, pointing out that 200,000 cases of canned peas were sold in the state during a recent campaign.

Although the National Cheese Institute has voted against sponsoring a cheese campaign next February, Carlson said the WAA would proceed with a spirited advertising campaign for the Wisconsin products regardless.

Adutant General Ralph M. Immell asked for a biennial appropriation of $413,000 for the national guard, an increase of $6,000 over the last two years. The federal government contributes about $812,000 annually.

"I believe in a good army," Heil said. "The better army you have, the better it will be for the citizens."

The Portage levee commission requested $5,000 for patrol work, maintenance and engineering services. The commission received $4,000 last year.

Air Raids on Civilians Hit At Conference

Declaration Would Protect Lives of Noncom-batants in War

FIGHT AGGRESSION
Chief Delegations Agree On Plan for Cooperative Action

Lima, Peru—(P)—War-time aerial bombardments which destroy non-combatants and cultural treasures were condemned today in a declaration adopted by a Pan-American conference committee representing 21 republics of the western hemisphere.

Based on a Mexican proposal, the "declaration in defense of human rights" said that although adoption of war regulations in the Americas was unnecessary, "America cannot be indifferent from a human viewpoint to sufferings of this character."

The declaration, which with committee adoption seemed sure of full conference approval, asked that civilian lives be protected when war occurs in other parts of the world even though American nations do not recognize "war as a legitimate means of solving international difficulties."

The principal delegations agreed today on a declaration of cooperative action against aggression, ending a 10-day dispute on wording between the United States and Argentina.

The declaration, highly reliable conference informants said, provided for consultation against aggression, the menace of force, and subversive political propaganda.

Argentina won her point, in that European or other non-American nations were not named specifically.
The United States attained its purpose, however, delegates said, in obtaining a declaration to which all the 21 American republics could subscribe.

Many of the delegates held that it was fear of propagandist incusion by European totalitarian dictator states which inspired the resolution in the first place; that even if it did not specifically contain the phrase "aggression form without" its warning was evident.

German Paper in Attack on Ickes

Goebbels' Publication Says Secretary Is Seeking War

Berlin—(P)—Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' secretary Der Angriff accused Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes today of seeking war and the disruption of relations between the United States and Germany.

"Instead of keeping order in his own land, he conducts anti-German agitation which is aimed at nothing else than war," the paper said of the United States official who referred during a radio symposium
Nov. 14, referring to Nazi anti-Jewish violence, to "the times when neither man nor nation can live without the decent respect of their fellow-men."

"Ickes is frankly the evil spirit present in American policy," Der Angriff said.

"If it is now represented in Washington that Ickes spoke as a private person, we must ask: What shall we think of a democracy in which a minister never is in agreement with the chief of state?"

"In any case we are of the viewpoint that the president was not without responsibility when one of his cabinet members makes that kind of agitation and the speech finds its way to the public and gives the press an opportunity to attack us."

(Mr. Ickes on Nov. 23 suggested Alaska as a haven for Jewish refugees from Germany and other European areas where the Jews are subjected to oppressive restrictions.)

Michigan Iron Miners Attend Christmas Party 1,500 Feet Underneath Earth's Surface

Ishpeming, Mich.—(P)—Iron miners held their annual Christmas party 1,500 feet underground Tuesday. The dark depths were brightened by a twinkling Christmas tree, and the tunnels rang with carols.

Pausing in the task of wresting iron ore from Mother Earth, 200 miners of the Morris mine foregathered at the eighth level station in an eerie setting to enact what has become a famous Christmas celebration.

Away from them, winding to cavernous depths beyond, stretched the drift, losing itself in blackness.
Along both sides of the drift, their electric lights stabbing into the darkness, ranged the miners Finn and Austrian, Swede and Englishman, Italian and Irishman, their stooped shoulders to shoulder and the ceiling echoed as they joined lustily in Christmas carols.

The last cage down had carried the carolers. Three hundred feet down the shaft they started singing, "Silent Night, Holy Night." As the first strains reached the ears of the men, a hush fell upon them. "All is calm, all is bright."
Instinctively heads were bowed.
Hands stole up to other shoulders.
"Genial Jim" Fowler, a 225-pound timber boss, held forth as Santa Claus. Gifts were in slapstick style, "ribbing" the recipients at incidents of the last year.
L. Wahl, manager of the mining division of the Inland Steel company, owner of the mine, said:
"We feel the party is much worthwhile. For this eventful two hours they stand together, all the petty differences of everyday life forgotten, men joined together in common observance of a season that neither knows nor draws any line between race or religion."

Good Fellows Christmas Fund Lagging Again; Need $350 More For Neediest of City's Poor

Contributions to the Good Fellows' Christmas basket fund fell off as abruptly today as they mounted yesterday. A total of $29 was received between noon yesterday and today from 14 contributors, compared with $110 the day before.
Contributions now total $243.45, less than half of the very minimum that should be raised, and only three days are left to get in this money.

All the eight cooperating charities have cleared their lists through Appleton Relief and Welfare council, and the job of packing these baskets will get underway tomorrow. Some organizations are arranging to have them delivered tomorrow night, and others will make deliveries Friday and Saturday. Just how many baskets will be sent out will depend upon the contributions of Good Fellows, and the cooperating societies fear that Good Fellow contributions will fall far short of the minimum needed.

Organization of an annual Good Fellows club makes it easy for Appleton people to do their bit toward helping the unfortunate. The hardest task of the whole business in that of investigating the families, getting required information about them, buying the supplies, packing the baskets and delivering them. All of this is done by volunteer labor under careful supervision and not one cent of Good Fellows money goes into overhead. Every dime will be used for the purpose it was given for—to make Christmas a bit brighter for the poor.

Good Fellows who provide the money have much the easier task.
Their contributions generally do not represent much of a sacrifice—small indeed compared with the hours of time and effort given by the active workers in the relief organizations.

Of the 6,500 families in Appleton, at least 3,000 could be Good Fellows to the poor if they wanted to be.
Compare that number with the actual number of Good Fellows up to date. Contributions have been re-

French Navy Planning War Games in 1939 Off W. Africa Coast

Paris—(P)—Orders for the French navy to hold extensive war games in 1939 in the southern Atlantic ocean off Africa's west coast were disclosed tonight.

Fears that Germany's ambitions might turn to French colonies and mandates on that coast as a stepping stone to the extension of Nazi influence to South America were recalled by further orders to some units to take advantage of the maneuvers to visit Latin American countries.

The war games will be concerned especially with the defense of Senegal, where the airport of Dakar is an essential link in air services between Europe and South America.
Reports from both North and South America of steadily growing German and Italian influence in Latin America have caused French military and colonial experts to point out that West Africa, which is largely French, would be an ideal point of departure for extension of the dictator-states' power.

Foreign Exchange Is Problem for Germany

Berlin—(P)—Confronted by a serious foreign exchange situation, the Nazi regime has effected further concentration of economic power by appointing Walther Funk, minister of economics, as director of the newly created "central office for increasing production."

During the first 11 months of 1938 Germany had an import excess of 205,000,000 marks ($82,200,000).
Hauling of this drain on foreign exchange reserves is expected to be Funk's major task.

Announcement of the assignment last night seemed to indicate it was merely a matter of departmental coordination, but informed business men today told a different story.

Clear Brown in Slaying But Not in Holdup Case

Shawano—(P)—A circuit court jury, after deliberating 14 hours, today acquitted Donald Brown, 27, Green Bay, of aiding and abetting the murder of Gerald "Joe" Brings, but convicted him of aiding and abetting the commission of a robbery.

Judge Edgar V. Werner did not impose sentence immediately.
Brings was slain near his Shawano county tavern last April when he was attracted by attempts of Brown's pal, Harry Vandekerckhove, to start an automobile.

Vandekerckhove, who is serving a life term for the slaying, testified yesterday that Brown had nothing to do either with the shooting or the attempted robbery.

Work to Rescue Two From Michigan Mine

Houghton, Mich.—(P)—Rescuers worked feverishly today to free two miners who have been trapped on the forty-fourth level of the Copper Range Consolidated Copper company mine at Painesdale, eight miles south of here, since 8:15 p. m.
Tuesday.

The miners, Tony Paulson, Boston, Mich., and Oliver Genovesi, of Atlantic, Mich., were trapped by a cave-in. Rescuers were able to talk with the trapped men and reported that they were alive and in no immediate danger.

Paulson and Genovesi were not missed until midnight. Other miners, who discovered the cave-in and communicated with the trapped miners by signals pounded on a metal car.

Nab Woman After She Gets $5,000

Bank President Says Suspect Threatened to Blow Up Building

Chicago—(P)—A young woman was seized today in a south side bank, Police Captain Eugene Barry said, shortly after she obtained $5,000 from the bank president by threatening in a note to "blow up the place and kill everybody" with a vial of explosive.

Captain Barry said she identified herself as Mary McCollum, 36, and said:

"I'm in poor health. I couldn't find work. I'm desperate and this seemed the only way to get some money."

Captain Barry said the woman entered the Drexel State bank and approached President R. J. Neal.
She handed him the letter demanding the money and displayed a small vial.

Neal read "I have an accomplice at the door with a machine gun," and when he observed a cab driver standing in the entry he became convinced the woman was in earnest.

The banker went with her to the draft teller's window, drew a note for $5,000 and accompanied her to the paying teller. There she signed the draft with the name "Bessy Carnegie" and was given the money, Captain Barry said.

But as she started to leave, President Neal signaled to Chris Covington, a city policeman assigned to the bank. Covington seized her without a struggle.

The vial was confiscated but its contents were not immediately analyzed. Police questioned the cab driver but released him.

Murder Suspect in 8th Day of Hunger Strike at Washburn

Washburn, Wis.—(P)—J. Albin Bergquist, 61, jailed pending trial on a first degree murder charge, today entered the eighth day of a hunger strike begun when officers took away his knife and fork as a precautionary measure.

Sheriff Hjalmar Frostman said that Bergquist, accused of slaying
John D. Pettengill, former Iron River banker, had refused food yesterday for the seventh consecutive day.

"He asked for a haircut and shave Tuesday and we thought that he might start eating if we fixed him up a little," the sheriff said, "but he refused the food as usual."

Bergquist, former Ashland salesman, is charged with shooting Pet-tingill during an argument over a bond deposited at a bank formerly operated by the Pettengill family.

He is scheduled to go on trial in the May term of circuit court.

Early Decision Is Due On Funds Controversy

Madison—(P)—The supreme court plans to rule before Jan. 2 on the legality of general fund withdrawals totaling nearly $4,000,000 ordered by the emergency board Nov. 16.

Chief Justice Marvin R. Rosenberry, expressing a desire to settle a dispute over the transfers before the change from a Progressive to a Republican state administration occurs, outlined the court's plan late yesterday.

He scheduled arguments on three issues for Friday afternoon and instructed attorneys to file briefs by next Tuesday. The court will decide whether the law creating the emergency board was constitutional; whether the Nov. 16 allotments were legal; and whether the board on Nov. 16 acted within the powers assigned to it.

Officials Told Not to Draft Proposed Bills

Roosevelt Adopts 'Definite Policy' on New Legislation

UP TO LEGISLATORS
President to Confine Self To 'Suggestions' to Congress

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt was reported in informed quarters today to have forbidden administrative departments to draft legislation for submission to congress.

Congressional leaders, asking that their names be withheld, said the chief executive had advised them he had adopted a "definite policy" of leaving the job of bill drafting up to the senate and committees.

The president's forthcoming message to congress, they said, merely will make "affirmative suggestions" for legislation.

Mr. Roosevelt's decision presumably would prevent future bill drafting by such government officials as Thomas Corcoran and Benjamin Cohen, who have been credited with writing much New Deal legislation. This practice has been criticized by anti-administration congressmen.

There have been other indications the president intends to recommend only broad principles at this session and let congress work out the details. He told his press conference yesterday such would be the case with expansion of the social security program.

Confers With Leaders
It also was understood on Capitol Hill he would leave parliamentary strategy on the government reorganization program to his house and senate leaders. He discussed it yesterday with Representatives Cochran (D-Mo.) and Warren (D-N.C.), who helped handle the legislation last spring.

Warren said afterward that "without any disparagement to the senate," a reorganization program would have been enacted last session if senate sponsors had permitted its division into four bills.

Senator Tydings (D-S.C.) chairman of the senate reorganization committee, said recently he probably would accept the four-bill idea at the next session.

Another subject which probably will be prominent in congressional debate before the senate campaign expenditures committee today. It began preliminary work on a report expected to recommend, as one of its principal points, congressional action to keep politics out of relief.

Murder Case Is Given to Jurors

Judge Outlines Five Possible Verdicts in Trial
Of Mrs. Fern Dull

St. Joseph, Mich.—(P)—A jury of two women and ten men retired at noon today to deliberate the case of blonde Fern Particia Dull, charged with murdering Attorney William Holbrook last Oct. 17 after a nine-year love affair.

Counsel for Mrs. Dull contended she was suffering from temporary amnesia when Holbrook, whom she considered her common law husband, was killed near the Benton Harbor police station.

Mrs. Dull, clad in the same black dress she has worn since the trial opened Dec. 12, listened intently but calmly this morning as Circuit Judge Mark D. Taylor, delivered his charge to the jury.

He instructed the jurors there were five possible verdicts they might return: Not guilty by reason of temporary insanity, not guilty (by reason of self defense), guilty of murder in first degree, guilty of murder in second degree, and guilty of manslaughter.

Brecke Warns Against 'Ticket Peddlers' for 'Inaugural Ball'

When Heil Becomes Governor

Madison—(P)—Roy L. Brecke, chairman of the executive committee in charge of inaugural ceremonies to be held in the capitol
Jan. 2, warned the public today against "unscrupulous ticket peddlers."

He said he had been informed that in several communities attempts have been made to collect funds for an inaugural ball, despite an announcement by Governor-elect Julius P. Heil that there would be no festivities following the afternoon receptions.

"Mr. Heil doesn't want any unnecessary expense," Brecke said.
"Any collections 'in behalf of the inaugural committee' are unauthorized."

Brecke sent programs today to nearly 1,000 persons who will take part in the inaugural and extended an invitation to the general public to attend the receptions, declaring that no invitations will be issued and no cards or tickets will be required.

Try to Determine If Mexico Sells U. S. Oil to Reich

Daniels Arrives at Washington to Make Report to Welles

Washington—(P)—Another phase of German-American relations came to the forefront today with arrival of Joseph Daniels, ambassador to Mexico, to report on whether Mexico is selling Germany oil seized from American-owned wells.

Daniels en route to his home at Raleigh, N. C. for Christmas, came here to confer with Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state. Nearly a month ago Welles asked him to investigate reports Mexico had entered into a deal with Germany to supply to $25,000,000 worth of petrol-um.

It was made clear then the state department had no concern in Mexican sale of its own petroleum, but that any disposition of American petroleum before an adjustment is reached with the producers would cause deep concern here.

Seized American Property
The Mexican government last March took over all Mexican property of American and British oil companies after they had refused to accept a supreme court verdict in a labor dispute. American losses have been placed by the companies concerned at about $150,000,000.
Mexico places the valuation much lower.

British demands for compensation or restitution of the property resulted in a severance of diplomatic relations between the two countries.
The United States has not yet presented claims of the American companies, which technically are still in litigation.

The state department has been having similar trouble with Mexico over expropriation of Americanowned farm lands. A joint commission now is adjusting the agrarian claims after the United States demanded Mexico pay promptly for any seized American property.

Wingersky told a state attorney general's inquiry that he drafted an arms and ammunition contract for Coster and was told to give the papers to "Ben Simon," but the deal never was consummated.

Other witnesses confirmed reports of armament negotiations—one, Thomas Amadeo Bruni, saying that an order of rifles was intended for Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, though never delivered—but James J. Caffrey, regional SEC administrator, scoffed at them "It's a lot of ballyhoo over nothing," he said.

Investigation of the firm's fantastic affairs continued today, howev-

Wage-Hour Bills Issue at Sessions Of Legislatures

Widespread Efforts at Passage Indicated Early Next Year

Washington—(AP)—A widespread effort will be made in state legislatures this winter to put a floor under wages and a ceiling over hours of millions of workers excluded from the federal wage-hour act.

Information available to labor department officials indicated today that state wage-hour bills will be proposed to at least 25 legislatures.

In some states it is expected that little more will be done than the gesture of introducing a bill, but in others, notably New York and North Carolina, there is expected to be a determined fight for passage.

The federal law covers only workers in industries which engage in interstate commerce. It does not apply to employees of retail establishments, such as grocery stores and gasoline stations, and in service enterprises, such as hotels and laundries. These would be subject to state laws.

Suggest Measure
A suggested state wage-hour bill was drafted by state labor executives meeting here last month. In general provisions it follows closely the federal statute, but leaves blanks for maximum hours and wage minima. Each state thus could set its own standards.

States which have asked for information on the model bill are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Missouri, Montana, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia and Wyoming.

Seventeen other states have legislatures meeting in January. Florida's lawmakers convene in April. Officials say that pressure for enactment of state laws is coming chiefly from two sources—labor unions and interstate industries subject to the federal law. The latter have to compete with intrastate industries that are not subject to it.

Small merchants, many of whom operate "family" stores employing only relatives, are most concerned over the effects of state wage-hour legislation, since a part of their ability to compete with larger enterprises rests on their unrestricted use of "family" labor.

Another Is Seized In McKesson Case

er, with the intriguing arms inquiry in the forefront. Dissension among officers of the company, McMahon said, was helping to elicit information and 20 more subpoenas had been served.

Edward N. Hubbard, Pennsylvania WPA worker and former husband of "Mrs. Coster," also was summoned to testify before the federal grand jury today.

Furtherance of the investigation disclosed, McMahon said, that "the McKessons' ill-gotten gains are mostly gone." It was supposed that the 1929 crash stripped Coster and it was estimated that, in the first place, he and his brothers took little more than $3,000,000 from the pirated firm in 1930.

Officers and directors of the firm hastened to tell the state attorney general yesterday that the firm's existing assets seem intact and its business sound.

Simon was held on a general conspiracy charge under the United States code. McMahon said he was suspected specifically of violation of the SEC act. The three McKesson brothers are held in $100,000 bail each on similar but more specific charges.

In the police lineup this morning Simon told acting Captain Samuel Mooney he had engaged in no conspiracy.

"I made a statement yesterday afternoon after I was questioned for a number of hours I waived immunity and I will say no more," he said.

French Rightist Party Would Dissolve Reds

Paris—(AP)—Colonel Francois de la Rocque's extreme rightist French social party demanded today that Premier Daladier disband the communist party in France, effect strict regulation of foreigners and reform the electoral system.

The party resolution threatened otherwise to withhold from Daladier the support of its nine deputies in the chamber. Daladier had a majority of 74 in the latest parliamentary test.

Kohler Company Will Pay Christmas Bonus

Kohler—(AP)—Each worker actively employed by the Kohler company yesterday received a $25 Christmas bonus, the company announced, and a similar check was sent to those on pension and illness lists and to families of employees who died during the year. More than 3,000 now are employed by the company, which announced it would pay the 1 per cent social security levy so the workers would receive the full amount.

JURY INDICTS MUSICA BROTHERS FOR LARCENY

George E. Dietrich-Musica, George Vernard-Arthur Musica and Robert Dietrich-Musica (left to right) were indicted in New York for grand larceny and forgery. Dewey said, "milked" the McKesson and Robbins Drug Corporation's crude drugs department through fictitious sales to at least five dummy companies.

Heil Plans Beautification Of Capitol Square; State Workers Lose Parking Place

Madison—(AP)—Hundreds of state workers, who park their cars around capitol square and on the capitol grounds, will have to move out to make way for a beautification program Governor-elect Heil will inaugurate.

Heil revealed his plans in a conversation at today's budget hearings with Charles A. Halbert, state chief engineer.

Halbert agreed that parked automobiles give the capitol property a poor appearance and also constitute a fire hazard.

"I've never seen any place in the country where the capitol grounds have been made such a parking spot," the governor-elect said. "If we need a law to change that we will have one. We are also going to have some money for flowers."

"This ought to be the beauty spot of America and a few dollars will do it," he added.

Halbert said the depression had cut down on expenditures for flower beds.

"The budget requests do not look like depression figures to me," Heil responded.

Going into detail, the governor-elect called attention to loose stones and cracked sidewalks in the capitol approaches. He even mentioned the four doors leading to the dome which he said need to be painted to correspond with the stone.

"There are so many things you don't know up," he said. "Maintenance is the cheapest thing in the world."

Heil told Halbert he would talk with him later about arranging parking lots for state workers. The chief engineer said that many employees drive their cars because Madison bus service is inadequate and Heil said he would do something about that.

Sen. Vandenberg Lacks 'Confidence' in Hopkins

Washington—(AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) said today he had no confidence in the ability of Harry L. Hopkins to fill a position of such "high responsibility" as secretary of commerce.

The Michigan senator, discussing rumors that Hopkins might be appointed to that post, added he had not decided how he would vote on such a nomination.

"If I'm asked to register a vote of confidence in Mr. Hopkins, I won't do so because I haven't any confidence in him in this kind of high responsibility," Vandenberg said.

He added the president was entitled to "the widest latitude" in filling his cabinet, and said he believed "the president ought to be permitted to function through sympathetic souls."

German Paper Would End Monroe Doctrine

Berlin—(AP)—Abolition of the Monroe doctrine was urged upon the South American republics today by Der Reichswart, a weekly paper edited by one of Chancellor Hitler's closest disciples, Count Ernst von Reventlow.

"We Germans have every interest in having the states of South America strong and independent," said an article by Von Reventlow himself.

"In order that these qualities may be fully developed it is necessary that among other things the Monroe doctrine and its various complements be abolished.

"Nothing more than an act of will is necessary to do this."

Finds Yodeling in The Bath Tub Is an Old Indian Custom

Washington—(AP)—Singing in the bathtub is just an old Indian custom, the office of Indian affairs disclosed today.

Research experts say the braves have been singing in their wickiups (bath shelters) as long as there is any record of the race.

The white man has a big advantage with his tub singing, however. Medicine men always are crowded into the wickiup, the authorities say, and when a medicine man yodels with his ablutions, its a four or five hour session.

Custom demands that nobody leave until the medicine man leaves, so the other Indians have to stick it out and sing, no matter what they think of the song.

Widow of Publisher Dies After Operation

Washington—(AP)—Mrs. A. W. Lee, 80, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, widow of the founder of the Lee group of middle western newspapers, died yesterday in a Washington hospital. She underwent an operation last Wednesday.

Her husband established the first of his group of newspapers at Ottumwa, Iowa. At his death, in 1907, the group included the Ottumwa Courier, the Muscatine Iowa Journal, the Davenport Iowa Times, the LaCrosse, Wisconsin, Tribune, the Hannibal, Missouri, Courier-Post, and the Wisconsin State Journal, Madison, Wis.

Mrs. Lee retained an active interest in these newspapers up to her death.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Friday, in the First Presbyterian church at Cedar Rapids.

GIVEN PROBATION

Marquette—(AP)—Joseph Cisek, Jr., of the town of Goodman, who was convicted by a circuit court jury last month of receiving stolen property, was placed on probation for three years by Judge A. F. Murphy yesterday.

Cisek was ordered to make restitution of more than 6,000 pounds of copper and brass, stolen from the Goodman Lumber company, which he had purchased.

BREAKS SAME ARM

Hartford, Conn.—(AP)—Mrs. Besse Mather broke an arm last winter when she fell on an icy sidewalk and she sued the city for damages.

The case came up in superior court yesterday, but Mrs. Mather was absent.

Her attorney said she "ripped over a rug Sunday and fell, breaking the same arm."

New Dining Room at Asylum to Be Used First Time Christmas

Patients of the Outagamie county asylum will get an extra treat this Christmas. They will eat their Christmas dinner in the new dining room recently completed in the asylum addition. The dining room has now been completely equipped and will be used for the first time for the Christmas dinner.

The new tables will be stacked high with tasty food, food that has been raised right at the asylum. The dinner menu includes roast chicken, gravy, cranberry sauce, raised doughnuts and rolls, pickles and celery, apple pie and home-made ice cream with coffee. The meal will be topped off with nuts and candies.

Other county institutions also will feel the spirit of Christmas. The Riverview sanatorium has been the scene of activity thus far this week with various societies and groups putting on Christmas programs.

Rap Air Raids on Civilians in War

agreed to a final draft at conferences lasting until early morning. The Argentine insistence that the declaration be against all aggressors was based on the contention that the United States might one day alter the good neighbor policy and be herself a potential aggressor.

The resolution now awaits the approval of home governments and, with the principal dispute settled, likely will be adopted unanimously within a few days, delegation spokesmen said.

It provides for resistance against any aggression or menace of aggression by force against any American republic. Any of the nations may start the procedure of consultation.

The hope for peace and universal concord is stated; it remains understood that each nation will take its own measures of defense; the juridical equality, the individual sovereignty and independence of all the American republics are recognized; and the resolution is named "the declaration of Lima."

The agreement was reached in two long meetings.

Secretary Hull, having abandoned his own wish for a formal mutual defense pact, insisted upon a declaration that could be made unanimously. He said early last night that he could go no further in making concessions but presumably decided later that the general wording would be acceptable.

Three Franklin D.'s Now at White House

Washington—(AP)—There are now three Franklin D. Roosevelts in the White House. The president's son, Franklin Jr., arrived at the executive mansion yesterday for the Christmas holidays, accompanied by his wife and their five-month-old son, Franklin third. Franklin Jr., is a student at the University of Virginia law school.

Madison—(AP)—Mrs. Donna Marie Shenners, 32, won an uncontested divorce yesterday from William H. Shenners, Jr., 34, former state senator. She asked no alimony in her suit which charged Shenners with cruelty and with staying out late. During his term in the legislature Shenners achieved wide publicity by introducing bills to outlaw heart balm suits. The couple was married July 19, 1937, at Crystal Falls, Mich.

Mrs. Ellen Woodward Named New Member Of Security Board

Washington—(AP)—Mrs. Ellen Woodward, new member of the special security board, can make cheese omelets or wear orchids with equal grace.

She is auburn-haired and talks with the drawl of her native Mississippi. Although she had held an important executive job for some years, he makes definite concessions to femininity—flowers for her desk and smart clothes with a few soft feminine frills.

President Roosevelt announced her appointment yesterday to succeed Miss Mary Dewson, who resigned, he said, because of her health.

Good-to-look-at, Mrs. Woodward has plenty of pepper. She recently told the house committee on un-American activities it was "un-American in the way it handled charges. Witnesses had declared workers on some of her WPA projects were communists."

As assistant WPA administrator since June, 1935, she has directed relief projects for women and professional persons.

Taking women off the "dole" and putting them to work has been a passion with Mrs. Woodward, who had headed women's projects under the relief administration before WPA.

She began her public life in 1926 when she entered the Mississippi legislature, where her husband, the late Albert Y. Woodward, formerly had served.

Build Addition

Brilliant—Bonds totaling $41,000 were sold at public auction conducted by the Brilliant Board of Education last night to finance the construction of an auditorium and gymnasium addition to Brilliant High school.

The bonds went to the low bidders, the First Securities company of Manitowish and the Calumet county bank of Brilliant. The bonds bear an interest rate of 3 1/2 per cent and will mature Aug. 1, 1953.

Total cost of the project, which is being done under PWA, is estimated at $75,000 which includes alterations to the present school building and construction of the addition. Excavation has been completed and workmen are pouring concrete for the foundation this week.

Truck Carries Power Plant for Lighting on Christmas Tableau

The lighting effects produced on the Christmas tableau which is being drawn through the city's residential districts, accompanied by a chorus of Christmas carolers, during evenings of this week are the result of careful and ingenious work.

Louis Luebke, city electrician, is in charge of the lighting on the float, which is a feature of the Christmas caroling project sponsored by the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce and directed by Mrs. Hazel F. Bannister, county WPA recreational director.

The power for the lights on the tableau, which depicts the scene in the Bethlehem manger at Christ's birth, is transmitted from a truck which travels immediately behind the truck bears a 110-volt generator. The four floodlights carry about 1,000 watts. Two of them are 200-watt, one is 500, and one is 100.

There is additional power needed to illuminate the neon halos and the small star above, bringing the total up to about 1,200 watts. There is also a spot light on the truck which throws a beam on the Mother Mary figure on the tableau.

German Club Play Is First in New School Auditorium

Students Appear in Adaptation of Dickens' 'Christmas Carol'

A fluent German speaking cast of 20 players, all members of the Appleton High school German club, presented "Froehliche Weihnachten", an adaptation of Dickens' famous "Christmas Carol," last night in the new auditorium. About 400 persons saw the play.

The setting of the play is Christmas in the office of Cornelius Heidenreich, an old miser. He is visited by the ghost of his former business partner, who wants to spare Cornelius his terrible fate. Three Christmas spirits visit him and show him scenes of Christmas past, present and future, and so effect his regeneration.

Unusually fine was James Donahue's interpretation of Cornelius, the Scrooge of the original play. Not only were his lines well-pointed, but his characterization was sustained from the opening scene to the end. Robert Bohn furnished excellent contrast as the hearty good-natured nephew.

Cast Members
Others in the cast were Ruth Grist, Virginia Grist, Robert Sager, Bud Thomas, Frank Abendroth, Francis Summitt, Leo Griesbach, Gordon Munson, Bernice Bleick, David Bliss, Calvin Kippenhan, Margaret Baunier, Marguerite Hughes, Mary Ann Schaefer, Harold Hesse, Bertha Symmes, Florence Mielke, Lillian Meltz, Marian Morrow, William Whittier, Mary O'Keefe and Olin Mead.

Miss Sophia Maase, German instructor, had charge of the direction and production of the play. The group who sang Christmas carols was directed and trained by Miss Irene Bosserman, German instructor. Miss Kathryn Fralish, speech instructor, and Miss Alice Petersen, English instructor, assisted with the make-up. The lighting effects were worked out by Jack Burroughs, biology instructor.

British, French Governments Begin Resistance to Hitler

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—The Anglo-French retreat appears to have ended and the heads of the two governments have begun resistance to the arrogant conduct of Hitler and Mussolini.

In one sense this is a tragic turn because it signals failure of the appeasement at Munich. The appeasement didn't appease. Conciliatory advances and concessions have not been reciprocated. Chamberlain has been speaking a language that Hitler doesn't understand. Chamberlain gave and gave. Hitler took and took. Mussolini has aggravated the situation by permitting his controlled press to wage an inflammatory campaign for seizure of French possessions which would transfer control of the Mediterranean.

It was inevitable that this would cause disillusionment in England and France, and that both governments would be compelled to stiffen. They spoke simultaneously.

Chamberlain in commons warned Germany that it would be a "tragic error" to regard Britain's efforts for peace as a sign of weakness. He said the only alternative to a policy of friendship was war but that Britain could not carry through a policy of appeasement without some help from the other side. Then he added bluntly: "I am still waiting for a sign from those who speak for the German people that they are prepared to make their contribution toward peace."

At the same time the French premier, Bonnet, was in the chamber of deputies warning Italy that "any surprise move to oblige France to cede territory can lead only to armed conflict."

Pessimistic Reports From Various Sources

This stiffening was not surprising here because pessimistic reports have been coming from reliable sources. This information is that Hitler is expected to move for the Ukraine in the spring. That is why Ambassador Joseph Kennedy, on his return from London a few days ago, said there was a strong possibility of war within the next few months. Those who talked with Anthony Eden when he was in America last week were left pessimistic by what they heard. There is less hope here that war can be avoided than ever before, except during the few hours before Munich.

Apparently Chamberlain has come around to Secretary Hull's contention that Hitler respects only force. It was with best wishes but much misgiving that officials here watched Chamberlain attempt his appeasement policy. For several years our officials have considered that Hitler was embarked upon a campaign of conquest. Chamberlain, however, was persuaded that, once Hitler had corrected the injustices of the treaty of Versailles, he would be reasonable. On that basis he was prepared to make considerable sacrifices to satisfy Hitler. But he woke up to find a gun at his head.

Watch Health During Holidays, Nurse Urges

Waupaca—"Close attention to the health and safety of Waupaca county children during the Christmas vacation," is asked of their parents by Miss Estelle B. Jung, Waupaca county nurse. During the school terms the public health nurse and the teacher can help the community through group health inspections in the schools, but during the vacations the prevention of outbreaks of communicable diseases rests more heavily than usual upon the parents. This does not mean much extra effort, Miss Jung says, but if care is taken to put to bed or sequester children who catch colds, that ailment and other more serious ones of which the cold is an early symptom may be kept under control with the aid of the family physician.

The holidays offer a good opportunity to increase a child's natural resistance to disease, said Miss Jung, through regular outdoor play regular meals and 9 or 10 hours of sleep in unheated well ventilated bedrooms.

Waupaca schools will close Thursday afternoon and will re-open Jan. 3.

Park Board Drops Plans to Extend City Golf Course

Plans for the addition of nine holes to the municipal golf course through the purchase of land adjacent to the present nine holes have been dropped, according to Erik Madisen, secretary of the park board.

Legal difficulties in securing the land from numerous property owners at the prices quoted in the original options is the reason the board decided to drop the plans for expansion.

The board had secured options on land estimated to cost between $15,000 and $17,000. It was planned to extend the course largely east to Kernan avenue and south to Calumet street. The addition would have been financed out of profits during the playing season.

Aldermen Adopt New Parking Law, Favor Skate Rink

Automobile Regulation Will Clear Streets for Snow Removal

Kaukauna—In its last 1938 session, the common council last night enacted an ordinance prohibiting parking on Kaukauna streets between 1 o'clock and 5 o'clock in the morning and went on record favoring the making of a skating rink for adults at the Kaukauna ball park.

Chief of Police James E. McFadden brought up the subject of the new parking ordinance, explaining that such parked vehicles hindered the removal of snow during the winter months. The council favored such a measure, which City Attorney Harry F. McAndrews immediately drew, the council then unanimously approving it.

The measure provides that no vehicle may be parked on Kaukauna streets from the hours of 1 to 3 o'clock in the morning from Dec. 1 to April 1. Any car found so parked may be removed by the police department to the city garage or another designated place, and the owner will have to pay removal and storage charges before he may reclaim his car. A fine of not less than $1 nor more than $10, or a term of up to 10 days in jail may be meted out under the penalty clause of the enactment.

Suggests Rink

Alderman Walter Kilgas reported to the council that the city athletic commission, a group recently set up, had discussed the possibility of flooding the ball park for skating. The ball park, with its large grandstand and fence, is an ideal spot for such a sport, Kilgas said. Two rinks, one for general skating and one for hockey, are contemplated. All that the city need provide would be a couple of lights and the water. An overhead pipe already connected to the park would make flooding an easy matter, Kilgas pointed out.

Alderman Raymond Nagel, another member of the city athletic commission, spoke for the project, saying that the Park and Nicolet school rinks, used mainly by children, were always crowded, and that accidents were common with adults skating at the same time.

Relief labor might be used to construct the ball park rink, Alderman Al Hartzheim suggested. As the WPA has recently laid off some men, the city might as well pay them for working on the rink as give them relief checks, Hartzheim explained, saying that the payment would thus be merely a bookkeeping transaction. The city employees union would not object to such labor, Nagel stated, saying that William Lambie, union president, had said that such extra city projects would not come under union rules.

Alder in Charge

Alderman Oscar Alger, south road district chairman, is in charge of the new rink. The city would not be liable for any accidents occurring there, McAndrews told the council.

The possibility of purchasing stone crushing equipment for use in the new power project was discussed but no action taken. Alderman Edward Steidl, chairman of the board of public works, told the council that Harvey Ganzer, WPA engineer for this area, had informed the board Monday night that WPA work on the power project would begin next Tuesday.

The resignation of Lillian E. Bell as a member of the library board was received by the council. A vote of thanks was tendered the Kaukauna Advancement association for installing Christmas decorations. The report of the electrical department for October was placed on file, and bills for the month allowed.

Today and Tomorrow

The First Line and Preparedness for War

Several commentators have undertaken to say how many more regular troops and how many more National Guardsmen, and how many planes for the Army and how many for the Navy, are immediately required. Estimates of this kind are, I venture to think, highly misleading. By placing the emphasis on what are supposed to be immediate requirements, they obscure and neglect the real needs of the national defense.

For when we speak of our immediate requirements we mean a Navy actually afloat, and an Army actually in uniform and under arms, sufficient to keep an enemy from attacking the United States or its vital outposts at Hawaii and Panama. For that mission the existing armament program must be very nearly adequate. It is adequate, that is to say, to keep an enemy at arm's length for some considerable period of time. But no military force we now possess, and none that could or would now be established, is even remotely adequate to insure our victory in a great war. And so, if our immediate requirements do not call for any spectacular increase in actual armaments, our requirements, in case of war would call for the enlargement of the fighting forces, and the production of armaments on a gigantic scale.

Ability to Mobilize

The real problem of national defense today has very little to do with our peace-time Navy and Army. The problem is to prepare now so that, if war comes, we shall, without unnecessary loss of time and therefore without useless loss of lives and of money, be able to mobilize our whole national strength. If we can do that promptly and efficiently no nation and no probable combination of nations could prevail against the matchless resources of this nation; if it is clear in advance that we are ready and willing to mobilize our whole national strength it is unlikely that any nation will challenge us. But if we are not ready to mobilize our reserves, if it is evident that it would take two or three years of muddle before we could make our potential strength effective, then no navy we can now build, however good, will give us real security.

In discussing this matter we have a right to assume that the first line of our defense is adequate, or so nearly adequate that, with modest additional appropriations, it will be as adequate as we can hope to make it. What needs our undivided attention and a national effort that transcends all politics and all parties is preparation now to organize in time of war for the full mobilization of American reserves.

Long Preparations Are Needed For Efficiency

For we must realize that if the emergency comes, we shall not be able to order ships, planes, and guns as we might, order a new automobile. We shall find, as we found in 1917, that before we can produce sufficient armaments we have to produce the plants capable of producing the armaments. Before we can equip the plants we shall have to make the tools. And if we are to sail the ships, and shoot the guns, and fly the planes, we shall have to train sailors and gunners and aviators, and men to command them, and men to train them. These are the things that cannot be improvised. These are the things that take not weeks but years to create. Plants, machines, tools, skilled workers, technicians, industrial managers, pilots, mechanics to service and repair planes, shipyards, naval bases, officers—these are not to be improvised. Yet in modern warfare, they are all important.

Problem Not Weapons But Plant Facilities

Much has been said recently about the danger of an hysterical armament program. There is such a danger. It is that we shall appropriate for our first line of defense more money than our industrial equipment is now capable of using and then that we shall fail to pay anything like adequate attention to making industry ready to produce in war time on a much greater scale.

Where we need to put our main emphasis and to invest most of our money is not in battleships but in shipyards that can build battleships, not in planes for next year but in a greatly enlarged airplane industry, not in more soldiers, sailors, and aviators but in the facilities for training soldiers, sailors, and aviators.

In short, it is not the immediate production of armaments from our existing plant that needs special emphasis but the increase of the plant itself out of which, if we have to, much greater armaments can be produced promptly and efficiently. Our problem is not how many arms we must have now, but how we may become fully armed in time of war.

Next Congress to Make Changes in New Atmosphere

Manufacturers Give Cue With Avowal of Mistakes

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee, and the man on whom will devolve much of the responsibility of securing the adoption of corrective legislation at the coming session of congress, has taken a cue from the frank avowal of mistakes which was embodied recently in the resolutions of the National Association of Manufacturers. Mr. Harrison, speaking on behalf of the legislative group, now says:
"For the past six years we have tried, by legislation, to solve many problems. In the main, our objectives have been most worthy and humane. There has arisen, of course a difference of opinion as to the best means of obtaining those objectives, but the end sought have deserved the favorable consideration and commendation of the American people. It would have been impossible to have done as much as we have without making mistakes. To me, the highest order of statesmanship is, when a mistake is apparent, to confess the error, and apply, if possible, the correction."

Unusual Statement
This is an unusual but not by any means novel statement, and, coming, as it does, after one of the representative business groups has shown a disposition to look more tolerantly on those who hold views other than their own, it is of the highest significance. The quotation above was part of Mr. Harrison's first speech this week, but he followed it up the very next day with the following:
"We cannot reach importance as a world factor in trade and commerce and peace through differences within any political party. It cannot be accomplished by any one political party, but it must be done through the united and cooperative spirit of right-thinking Americans who believe in the preservation of our form of government and that equal treatment be accorded every class of our citizens."

"What we need now, in all our people, is the quality of courage, magnanimity, forgiveness and understanding."
It is not often that the chairman of the senate finance committee speaks in this vein, and hence his words will be read in the light of the conflict between economic groups as well as the divisions within the Democratic party which brought on the so-called "purge" campaign last spring. Senator Harrison dismisses the subject of liberalism and conservatism with this definition:

Conservative Or Liberal
"Much has been said about conservatives and liberals. It matters not to me if I be classed as a conservative or as a liberal. I believe as did Disraeli when he said: 'I am a conservative in that I would save what is wholesome; yet I am a liberal in that I would destroy what is evil.'"

The Mississippi senator devoted most of his two speeches to taxation and the importance of trying to find a way to curtail expenses of the federal government. He concedes that some worthwhile things have been done by the legislative process and that relief has served on the whole a worthy purpose, but he points out that many persons have come to feel "that the government exists to support them and theirs." Mr. Harrison sums it up thus:

"And so, I have no doubt that it is the most wise policy on the part of this government to devise plans that will encourage private industry to give employment to the deserving citizens, rather than for the government to continue its present relief program."

MODEST MAIDENS

"Father's very difficult. He's still got those cigars we gave him LAST Christmas!"

Same Objective
Unquestionably, both new dealers and anti-New Dealers, liberals and conservatives, will agree on the desirability of such an objective. The differences usually arise when it is sought to find practical ways to reach the objectives. The period of pain and hardship which a sudden transition might entail is not relished by any political party or its members facing an election. Political parties do not go in for such drastic readjustments, cognizant though they may be at heart of the ultimate wisdom of such a course.

So, with the trend will be to dispose of the present relief system, some makeshift substitute which will not bring about a collapse of government stimulus or purchasing power will have to make its appearance before the present system is scrapped.

It can be said without fear of contradiction that Senator Harrison's speech represents what folks inside the government of all political faiths understand to be the desired goal, but the demand is still for ingenious minds to find constructive ways to bring about economic recovery on a sound rather than an artificial basis. The panaceas are numerous, but the men elected to office are the ones who really decide whether the proposed solutions will find approval at the polls. The next session of congress will see some important decisions in an atmosphere not unlike that which the chairman of the senate finance committee has just portrayed as desirable.

There was a Christmas tree and gifts were exchanged, after which refreshments were served.

The Luther League of Christus church held a Christmas party at the church parlors Sunday evening. The young people joined in singing Christmas songs, after which several playlets were given. Games and contests were played, the prizes in these being won by Emil Stubenvoll, Jr., Warren Siefert, May Werth, Edward Kuehn and Norman Rosnow. Presents were exchanged, after which a lunch was served. The program committee included Miss Hope Stubenvoll, Miss Pauline Winter and Raymond Smith.

A family gathering was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tanner on Bennett street. A supper was served, after which the evening was spent in playing "Rook." Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Aloysius Baur of Fond du Lac, Mr. and Mrs. John Kafka, Russell Tanner, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lang, Mr. and Mrs. William Nath and Mrs. Clara Lang of this city.

ENOUGH AT THE UNIVERSITY!

The University of Wisconsin has been in the budget news recently as will always be an institution that requires about 5 million dollars a year to operate.

Every new legislature must consider not only the immediate amount of money required at the university but the entire policy of the state in respect to its educational system, a policy, we believe, that is close to blind.

Primarily it is unsound to concentrate practically all of the state's efforts in the realm of higher education at one point. Thousands of students go to Madison who should be attending the smaller colleges in the state if the latter had facilities for them. The regular university courses of a general educational nature are the same whether at the university or Beloit, Ripon, Lawrence or St. Norbert's excepting that the students at the smaller colleges are, in the opinion of many observers, better taught and better trained than where they attend in such numbers that each becomes practically a number and little more.

If we were to wash both politics and sentiment out of the present situation in Wisconsin we would immediately halt any further extension of the university. We would quit buying lands at racket prices and erecting more edifices of brick and stone. We would instead enlarge the smaller colleges and thus pay attention to the quality as well as the quantity of our education.

The state of Wisconsin is neglecting one of the greatest privileges to which the coming generations is entitled. And that is the privilege of opportunity. For opportunity in gaining an education is just as important as opportunity in getting a job.

Figures are overwhelming that wherever colleges are available in communities the percentage of those who grasp this opportunity for education is surprisingly higher than where the institution is far removed. Hundreds upon hundreds have attended the colleges in our own community who never would have gone past high school were it not for the convenience of location. The proximity made it possible, perhaps, to live with a relative or acquaintance or to get a part supporting job or otherwise turn the necessary financial corner to glean from life the essential training at the necessary age.

Were we to eliminate entirely from this proposition of education all considerations that could be classed as selfish we would extend financial aid to the smaller colleges instead of pouring more money into the university, and for the dual purpose of keeping the quality of our education high while we extended the opportunity of education as far as possible.

THE EUROPEAN GAME CONTINUES

At last the French Chamber of Deputies found a resolution upon which all members could agree.

And France's foreign minister left Mussolini and the world in no uncertainty about the spurning of all demands for French territory.

The whole circus engineered by Italy has been just about as preposterous as a kidnaper's note demanding ransom but couched in terms claiming patriotic purposes.

Judged by world usage France's title to Tunisia and Corsica is impregnable, although Nice has been a strip that has changed hands during the centuries and was last wrested from Italy's grasp seventy years ago.

The French prefer to have demands presented to them in subtle, finished fashion. They must have abhorred the clumsy methods of the Fascists. Street mobs are older than Rome. Raking out the denizens of the alleys and moistening their throats with a few liters of wine and giving them words to shriek they did not even understand was too club-footed a proposition for the Parisian. It was wholly naked of any touch of finesse and as sublime as a clod of clay.

The Italian demands are to date a dud, and what is more an empty dud.

But, depending upon the understanding that attended their release they may provide a chance for the often expected breach between Rome and Berlin. When Hitler was in difficulties concerning Czecho-Slovakia Mussolini came to his aid immediately, literally threw himself without reservation into the fray. But the Germans are much more conservative. They may have been affected by English friendship. They may be more intrigued by wheat lands as their eyes glaze over the Ukraine. With France and England on the friendly side Germany hasn't any need for Italy, not even a particle. But with France and England on the unfriendly side Italy would still be far from enough to withstand them.

Still the dice shaking goes on. The dice are old and smooth-cornered, and sometimes loaded and sometimes fingered. But there is still much time to shake and throw them before tempers flame up high enough to start a brawl.

ARSENIC ANNA'S LAST WORD

Arsenic Anna wrote a confession admitting her crimes and pleading an excuse of doubtful integrity.

In writing the confession she may have sought to pay the lawyer who fought so desperately in her behalf, or, possibly, create a fund for her child upon whom is cast something of the evil shadow her life created. Although her crimes may be left to her Maker for judgment the document she wrote is bound to provoke comment and conclusions of multiple variety in this land where the mental exercise obtainable in the analytical study of malevolent people is fascinatingly undertaken by so many.

No doubt this woman on the brink of eternity sought to tell the truth. But her explanations will convince many that it is impossible for the guilty to tell the whole truth, and that it is natural for those who have participated in horrendous crimes to reach out for any sort of branch on which to cling or shield behind which to hide against the accusing eyes of millions.

Arsenic Anna reached back many years in her life to a wrong committed against her as justification for a series of fearful killings, dyed even blacker by the confiding trust all her victims centered in her.

Perhaps all should stop with the part of her confession that admits her crimes. Why try to account for all the many factors that may have steered her hand as it poured poison in the cup? What good is accomplished by revealing Arsenic Anna as one who even deluded herself? And yet her own deception is accountable in the seemingly innocent way in which the facts she recounts refute the very conclusions she puts upon the same page.

Had she murdered these men because the very sap of her life had soured through the sharp agony she suffered at the hands of another long ago she would have made a better explanation than appears when we find her on each occasion that the church bells tolled brushing several thousand dollars into her ample pocketbook and then going out to the race tracks, the night clubs and the other hectic spots of high life and expensive pleasures.

Her confession should satisfy nearly everyone that however great the offense, and perhaps the greater the more certain the result will be, a miscreant naturally puts forth such facts as may be found to ease the judgment of mankind. This result is accomplished just as frequently by showing that although one killed another the killer has often been mistreated too.

As police files in any metropolis will show, Arsenic Anna's confession fits well into an old form. It is really trite and standard. The archives are full of just such justifications.

MORE LIKE TREASURER SMITH

Wisconsin's new state treasurer, Smith by name, states that he and his wife will try to get along on $1200 a year because he wants to devote the balance of $3800 of his salary to paying debts of honor.

Mr. Smith was president of a bank up at Shell Lake which closed in 1927. He said he dedicated himself to paying the losses to depositors even if it were to take the rest of his life. He refused to accept the clearance papers given to every man in bankruptcy who has had the misfortune to become overpowered by debt created honestly. So Mr. Smith figures that in seven years more he will have everything paid off and since he is only sixty-seven and spry and active that isn't much of a task.

Our public life, of course, needs more men of the rock-rubbed character of Mr. Smith. Opportunities like his to remain fast to the friends who trusted him are almost always ushered in under dark circumstances. Bankruptcy is not necessarily defeat. With the right kind of a man it is opening the door to the sunrise.

Every community has had men who went bankrupt. Some of those men came back financially in strong fashion. Of those who recovered themselves many have gone around and paid the obligations from which the law releases them. Some have not.

But those who did established a reputation and a standing more enduring than any bank account.

Wisconsin is lucky to have had its just share of men like Mr. Smith who considered a debt an obligation of honor that was not wiped out until it was actually paid. But the state is more fortunate still in happening to elect Mr. Smith to a high office. It often elects men when it wants a change without much scrutiny.

French Somaliland lies between Eritrea (Italian), Abyssinia and British Somaliland and is separated by the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb from Aden (British).

The number of members of the Roman Catholic Church in New York City is 1,733,000 to make it the second largest church group. The Jewish denomination leads.

DALE HARRISON'S
In Old New York

New York—It seems to me there are more people playing accordions than there used to be. It must be because many of the well known dance leaders have adopted it in recent years—fellows like Paul Whiteman, Horace Heidt, Phil Spitalny, Xavier Cugat, Shep Fields and Al Donahue.

There are about 800,000 accordion players in America, leaders of the industry tell me. They give a big share of the credit for making America Squeeze-Box conscious to Pietro Deiro, often called "The Daddy of the Accordion." An immigrant miner, he came over after the war and played wherever he got a chance, picking up a precarious living for years but at the same time creating new curiosity in the instrument. When he returned to Italy recently he was given a great ovation for having spread the accordion's fame—the accordion having been one of Italy's chief exports.

This, however, is no longer true as far as America is concerned. With the increase in demand, America has begun manufacturing its own accordions.

Musicians name Basil Fomene and Charles Magnante as probably the best artists of the squeeze box now entertaining, but Tito Guidotti is definitely the "tikiest"—the swiftest.

The Accordion World, the trade paper of the industry, has lately undertaken a world survey, and estimates that altogether there are two million push-and-pull players on the earth. Some of the more prominent amateurs on the instrument are the Duke of Windsor, Doris Duke Cromwell, Ed Wynn and Jascha Heifetz.

Hollywood's colony of tyro accordionists include Fred MacMurray, Nelson Eddy, Leo Carrillo, James Stewart and Frank Capra. Buddy Rogers is currently teaching the intricacies of accordion playing to his wife, Mary Pickford.

Words and Musings

To a lot of us who loved it, there is a sense of deep regret that Billy Rose has elected to make some radical changes in his Casa Manana. There, in the opinion of a great many people, was one of the most dependable Evenings Out in New York—dinner, cocktails, a vaudeville show, and dancing for those who danced.

Rose found, however, that the appeal of the Casa Manana was not in the fact that it was a night club but rather because it was a vaudeville show. This surprised him, and a great many others. Everybody thought vaudeville was dead.

The apparent reason for Rose's decision to discontinue the night club and to operate the Casa Manana strictly as a two-day vaudeville house—the only one in the United States—was announced as labor trouble. Rose said his waiters were demanding pay increases which he regarded as unwarranted. There is a healthy suspicion that another reason may have been that Rose believes the Casa's popularity has been due more to the vaudeville than to the night club phases of the enterprise; and that two-day vaudeville is really what the public wants, rather than a night club with vaudeville.

There is the usual Broadway irony in the affair, for here is an instance of an enterprise that was apparently highly successful being abandoned in favor of vaudeville which even Rose himself a year ago believed to be beyond resurrection.

Rose believes he will have no trouble in getting talent for his vaudeville bills, although not all Broadway showmen agree. His shows during the past summer and fall have been recruited from talent that either is engaged in pictures or the legitimate theatre, or which was presented for its appeal to old timers—ancient acts which won applause not so much because they were good but because they once were good.

As the editor of the home town weekly paper would put it, we shall await results with interest.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Dec. 24, 1913

The F. W. Woolworth company, Appleton Woolen Mills and Lake Superior Knitting works decided to distribute money, turkeys and boxes of candy to their respective employees as Christmas gifts.

There were 212 sacks of mail dispatched from the local post office that day and 245 sacks were received.

Branch No. 8 of the Catholic Knights of Wisconsin had elected the following new officers for the ensuing year: President, Fred Stoffel; vice president, Henry Rossmessel; recording secretary, Gustave Keller; financial secretary, William Konrad, Jr.; marshal, George Spoor; trustee, Arthur A. Rossmessel.

George Sherman was expected home that night from an extended business trip to Europe. He was to be accompanied from Chicago by his son, James.

10 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Dec. 19, 1928

The Christmas rush of mail had begun at the Appleton post office with every mail train bearing four to five times the amount normally brought into the city.

Officers of the Sheet Metal workers, Local 403, were elected at a meeting that week. They were William Fisher, president; Charles Fisher, vice president; Len Schreiter, recording secretary; John Voet, financial secretary; John Ehle, treasurer; Herman Haak and William Lueders, trustees; John Green, guard; Peter DeBruin, conductor.

Sixteen students of Neenah High school who had made outstanding records during the first and second 6-week periods were to be guests Thursday noon of the Rotary club at its weekly luncheon at the Valley Inn. The seniors were Edward Larson, Helen Christofferson, Gordon Hewitt and Marie Webster; juniors, Gordon Bennett, Myra Art, Phillip Hahl and Henrietta Krause; sophomores, Gordon Drews, Edna Kollath, Clifford Hogenson and Marguerite Schultz; freshmen, Kenneth Handler, Harriet Niles, Jack Bettermick and Myrtle Burstein.

A Verse for Today

by Anne Campbell

TO A CHRISTMAS TREE

I saw your brother in a wood
Last summer where the northern sky
Comforted his green solitude. . .
I saw him lift his young head high,
And in the breezes, heard him sigh.

Perhaps he guessed it would be you Chosen to leave his native place
To make a cherished dream come true.
And for a long day touch with grace
A city orphan's lonely face.

I saw your brother in a wood
In summer when the day was mild. . .
Like you, he must believe it good
To bear the axe, to leave the wild.
To die, if need be, for a child!

A Bystander
In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — Our Christmas story for this year is how some applejack, a Negro servant, and an enterprising general named Washington gave this country one of its happiest yuletides.

Grover

Scarcely a man is now alive who hasn't seen the picture of Washington crossing the Delaware, his foot braced riskily against the gun-wale of a shallow boat as he led his hungry, shivering forces in a surprise march to capture the hired German soldiers fighting England's colonial wars.

But we have seen mighty few who knew about the applejack and the servant. It was this way: Washington and his colonial troops had suffered one defeat after another at the hands of the British, not such tin-head soldiers as some of our writers imply. In the battle of Long Island, the surrender of Fort Mifflin and other affairs, Washington and his generals had lost 4,430 men in 12 weeks and were backing away toward interior Pennsylvania as the winter of 1776 approached.

Congress Adjourns
On Dec. 8 Washington crossed the Delaware fleeing from the Redcoats and hired Hessians, who were so close that three hours after he reached the Pennsylvania side the troops in pursuit arrived at Trenton. They were headed for Philadelphia. Congress hastily adjourned to Lancaster, then to York and finally to Lancaster. There was no filibuster about THAT adjournment.

Washington had seen to it that all boats on the Trenton side were either pulled to the Pennsylvania shore or destroyed. So the pursuing British and Hessians had to wait to cross on the ice. None had formed by Christmas, but great ice wedges were crunching down the river from up stream.

Washington badly needed a victory to bolster the wavering courage of the colonists. The forces opposing him were better armed, better fed and better treated by the Tory colonists along the Atlantic, but he knew his Christmas and the value of a surprise attack. He decided that the Hessians, who always observed Christmas in a big way, would be pretty high by Christmas night.

On the afternoon of Dec. 25 he divided his forces into three wings, one to cross downstream to cut off British troops at Bordentown, another to cross just below Trenton. Washington led the main body upstream eight miles to make the crossing.

The Truth

The temperature had dropped suddenly and a blizzard blew up. One colonial regiment was entirely without shoes. It is no fiction that they left a red trail in the snow. Skilled New England fishermen put them across safely and quickly, in spite of the ice. Washington, early across, sat on the bank giving orders. "He was not what ladies would call a pretty man," said one trooper in his diary.

It was Christmas night as they moved out on the eight mile march. In the dark a dog ran out from a farmyard, barking. A soldier bayoneted him, to stop the alarm. A Tory Pennsylvania farmer spotted the column and hastened to Trenton to warn the Hessian commander, Colonel Rall. A Negro butler refused to let him in. That was a important moment in American history. The farmer was a note of warning, but Rall, busy celebrating, stuffed it into his pocket without reading it.

Christmas Gift

The German troopers and officers had discovered a new and interesting drink. It went down smoothly and kicked like a mule. Farmers called it applejack. The Germans celebrated on it richly, singing around the first Christmas trees seen in America.

When Washington's forces hit at daybreak, Rall was in his night clothes. It was a complete surprise, contrary to some grade school history books, the Hessians in spite of their confusion, fought the fight of hard professional soldiers. But they were raked by grapeshot and musketry. Their artillery was shot to pieces as fast as they could get it up.

Washington lost two soldiers, the Hessians a hundred. Nine hundred surrendered, cut off a few at a time without loaders. It was a nice Christmas gift to the colonial cause.

Your Birthday

"CAPRICORN"

If December 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:45 a. m. to 12:45 p. m.; from 1:45 to 3:45 p. m. and 7:45 to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:45 to 10:45 a. m. from 5:45 to 7:45 p. m. and from 9:45 to 11:45 p. m.

Winter begins this day, with prospects of being a very prosperous one. If this is your birthday anniversary you were born under the Zodiacal sign Capricorn. Capricorn people, as a rule, are inclined to be serious, ambitious, and persevering. You should always be able to face and overcome any discouraging condition. You may frequently conceal your feelings, with the result that you are often misunderstood. Let your generous impulses and kindness be revealed rather than concealed. You may make it a point to ignore trifles, but never let important things in your daily life, in all probability you readily forgive a mistake, but not a falsehood, for the telling of truth may be one of your pet obsessions. You believe in being practical, and can usually see through visionary schemes. Noted Physician and Author

HEART ENLARGEMENT

When valvular leakage develops as a result of endocarditis complicating some such illness as quinsy, scarlet fever, acute infectious arthritis (perhaps without being recognized as endocarditis at the time of the illness or indisposition, since it frequently produces no symptoms pointing to the heart), the natural course of the valvular disease is a gradual enlargement of the heart. The heart enlarges, becomes more powerful, because it has to pump more blood at each beat, in order to compensate for the backflow of some of the blood thru the damaged valve. When the heart is thus enlarged or hypertrophied and its capacity to maintain efficient circulation is increased, physicians refer to the state as "compensation" or "good compensation." Such a heart pumps an adequate supply of oxygen to the cells, tissues and organs to enable them to carry on their functions normally—so long as the individual's ways of living and his activities remain within his limitations or do not make greater demands than his margin of reserve power can meet. So it seems that enlargement of the heart is rather a blessing.

Young men who have had some years of athletic training commonly develop more or less enlargement or hypertrophy of the heart. It is a necessary part of such training for contests of endurance, such as football, boxing, wrestling, distance running, distance swimming. While they continue their athletic careers the enlarged heart gives no trouble, but if they abruptly give up athletic activities and indulge in a prolonged loaf or enter some sedentary occupation, they are likely to suffer from palpitation or consciousness of the action of the heart and other symptoms which need not be presented here. It is better to keep up a fair degree of daily physical exercise in one form or another, to break training gradually, not suddenly. The cardiac hypertrophy or enlargement was developed gradually; let it be removed in the same way.

It is because strenuous athletic training necessarily produces enlargement of the heart that physicians who have studied the problem and have had experience advise against such precocious affections as football in high school. Training for football, if properly carried on under the supervision of a physician, is not injurious to men of university age. It is a dangerous thing for boys in their teens. At that period of life a boy's heart is taxed to supply the oxygen his rapidly growing and a developing cells, tissues and organs require. To permit him to do his rah-rah imitation of the university football player is criminal negligence on the part of parents—ignorance is no excuse—and its damaging effect is likely to handicap the boy thru life. Physical training and athletic activities for high school boys, of course, but for the future welfare of the boy, don't be silly about it. Boxing (short rounds), sprinting, swimming, baseball, tennis, jumping and the like are suitable athletic contests for growing boys.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Medical Charity

Do you believe one gets as good treatment and care by going to—Hospital to have a tumor removed as one would get in private hospital? (A. B.)

Answer—So far as the medical or surgical services are concerned, it doesn't matter whether you are a charity patient, pay your board and room alone or pay the entire cost including the doctor's or surgeon's fee. You get the same treatment, of course, as for the style of accommodations, and such fancy trimmings as special nurses, etc., that is a matter of your personal taste or desire.

Greens
This year we raised carrots, leeks, onions and parsley in our own garden. We only eat raw greens because we thought they were good for us. Is there danger from insect eggs or bird droppings? It is practically impossible to wash in the cracks of parsley and carrot tops. Would it be better to cook all our green foods? (Mrs. W. J. W.)

Answer—The dangers you mention are insignificant. Ordinary washing of green leafy vegetables is sufficient. But all means eat them raw. It is contamination of raw vegetables by human excrement or by human germ carriers handling them between field and table that involves some risk. You need have no fear of that in vegetables grown in your own garden and handled only by yourself.

Impacted Wisdom Tooth
Will impacted or unerupted wisdom tooth affect the eyesight and in time liable to cause blindness? (R. K. S.)

Answer—Nearly half of all adults over 25 never cut from one to all four third molars.

March, 1938: Flood Waters Run Wild On U. S. Western Coast

BY VOLTA TORREY
New York—(AP)—Herbert Hoover, touring Europe last March, found every problem "acute."

Political Poner No. 1 was Austria. And Adolf Hitler, the corporal who had kept on fighting, finally to win the World war, boldly extended Germany's frontier clear around Austria's 32,377 square miles and 6,760,233 people. Diplomats often had said the tried five-suit bridge decks, but here, too, it was a stormy March: Scores died and damage was set at $60,000,000 when rains sent floods ripping through Southern California, marooning many, disrupting transportation, forcing Hollywood stars into real-life hero roles. Tornadoes swirled fiercely through the Midwest and south.

Richard Whitney, ex-president of the N. Y. Stock Exchange, pled guilty to thefts that shocked Wall Street, declaring: "I fully realize that certain of my actions have been wrong. I am determined to meet the consequences."

Tribulations Of TVA
TVA's quarrelsome directors were summoned to the White House. "If this love child of the administration, TVA, is indeed illegitimate, no shotgun wedding can give it either a fair name or unblemished reputation," thundered New Hampshire's Sen. Bridges. And the President ousted Chairman Arthur E. Morgan for failing to sustain "grave and libelous charges of dishonesty and want of integrity" against his fellow directors.

Robert H. Jackson became solicitor general. Thurman Arnold, "Folklore of Capitalism" author, succeeded him as head trust-buster. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt helped Amarillo, Texas, honor mothers-in-law. Greta Garbo and Leopold Stokowski were reported seeing Italy together. Three Albanian princesses looked America over. And the obituaries of Col. Edward House, Gabriele d'Annunzio and Clarence Darrow were published.

CHAPTER III OF A MONTH-BY- MONTH REVIEW OF 1938

League of Nations would be "a real thing" only when it could alter Europe's map. It hadn't. And its disciples were dismissed in the spring of '38 as "idealists," while dealers with dictators were dubbed the "realists."

"Was even suspected that Der Fuehrer might accept a crown when he rode into Vienna in a six-wheeled motor chariot, accompanied by his Prussian police and Jew-haters, booming 'Sieg Heil!'"

Shadow And Substance
And Berhins Under den Linden was decorated, when he returned, with a banner that read: "Fuehrer, your Sudeten Germans (in Czechoslovakia) also are waiting." France's deputies upheld their shaky government, 439 to 2, in a policy of standing by Czechoslovakia. But America's ex-embassy to the Reich, William E. Dodd, predicted: "Great Britain won't do anything if Germany invades Czechoslovakia."

Poland, meanwhile, provided March's secondary scare—by suddenly getting tough about little Lithuania's refusal to recognize the Poles' forcible seizure of the Vilna territory 18 years previous. Lithuania gave in.

Warbirds left 872 dead, 2,000 wounded, 10,000 homeless in Barcelona on a single weekend. Japan's parliament passed a "fascistic" mobilization bill. Russia tried and executed more bigwigs. Mexico seized foreign oil properties valued at $400,000,000. And Brazil's police uncovered a cache of Nazi daggers.

Americans sang "Ti Pi Tin" and

Suggests Bureau As Next Step in Drive on Cancer

Research Expert Would Keep Exact Records On National Scale

Chicago—(P)—Dr. Maud Slye recommended today establishment of a "bureau of human statistics" as the next important step in the nation's fight against cancer.

The noted University of Chicago pathologist who has devoted a lifetime to cancer research said she meant by that "an agency for the study of cancer in humans on a laboratory basis, particularly the keeping of exhaustive, precise records on a state-by-state scale."

"If we could do that, if we could start it right now, we could within three generations—the lifetime of next June's medical graduates—take long strides toward learning the whys of human cancer."

"Hereditary Factor Proven"

Dr. Slye, now white haired and nearing 60, for some 30 years has kept records on 150,000 mice, 100 generations of them, and said "the laboratory has proved the hereditary factor in cancer of mice."

"Now, then, if we could inaugurate a system of records for humans, we could over a period of years eliminate cancer because we would have the knowledge of what causes it—both the hereditary factors and the external provocative factors—and therefore we would know how to avoid it."

"The medical bureau of human statistics would embrace the science of knowledge of the patient, to complement the science of knowledge of disease."

Code—Record

"The hospital, of whose cancer committee I am a member, consented to try out a code-record I devised and it is being used to a limited degree. It includes data on a patient's ancestors; physical, racial and national characteristics; illnesses and injuries; diet and eating habits; sexual development; occupations—everything that might have a bearing on the reasons why he has cancer."

"Now imagine the invaluable information we would have on cancer if such a system were on a statewide basis, and if every state had such a bureau."

Dr. Slye declared such records, combined with autopsies by which diagnosis would be checked and mistakes corrected, would "settle the causes of cancer; we wouldn't be guessing at them any more."

Steel Company Case Nears End After 18 Months

Litigation Is Longest and Costliest in Labor Board History

Pittsburgh — (P) — The Weirton Steel company case, longest and costliest in the history of the national labor relations board, neared at last today the end of its trials and tribulations.

Through 18 months of testimony in three states marked by numerous recesses, the stormy hearings were punctuated by frequent verbal conflict among irritated attorneys and occasional threats of physical combat.

This was climaxed months ago in Steubenville, Ohio, when at a gavelling session company counsel Clyde Armstrong of Pittsburgh objected to certain testimony and Board Examiner Edward Grunison Smith of Clarksburg, W. Va., ordered him to sit down. Armstrong refused and the session ended in an uproar.

The labor board at Washington then stepped in and Armstrong was barred from the hearing. Smith, who had broken numerous gavel and shattered glass desk tops in pounding for order, withdrew and the board named James C. Batten as examiner.

Estimates on the cost of the case range into the millions. A spokesman for the company weeks ago said Weirton expenses were "far above" $1,000,000.

The labor board charges the company violated the Wagner act by coercing its employees, fostering a "company union" and discharging workers for activities in behalf of an "outside" union.

Over 700 Witnesses

To date 37,000 pages have been filled with the testimony of 401 witnesses summoned by Isadore N. Poller, chief NLRB counsel, and the 353 called by Armstrong and present chief company counsel, John E. Laughlin, Jr.

Laughlin announced that after today, the company would call only a few more witnesses before resting its case. After recess for the holidays, the hearing will resume on Jan. 3 for approximately a month, Batten said.

Seek New Revenue Source for Fish, Game Protection

agation of fish and game, and $90,000 for rough fish removed.

The two mill forestry tax which was approved in a popular referendum will raise about $1,720,000 during the two year period, it was estimated. Licenses for hunting and fishing and other fees turned into the conservation fund during that period will amount to $779,650 for 1939-40 and $864,650 for the following year of the biennium, H. W. MacKenzie, director, told the governor-elect at the hearing.

"We realize that the state general fund is in such condition that it cannot afford to either increase appropriations or provide additional funds to supplement our license income," MacKenzie told the new chief executive.

"For that reason, no requests are being made for further appropriations from the general fund. However, the fact still remains that if we are to expand our fish and game production programs in the manner that should be done, considering what they will return to the people in the way of recreation and food, or even if we are to maintain them at their present level, added income will, of course, be necessary," he warned.

"With the cooperation of everyone concerned," he continued, "we will request the legislature to enact revenue-producing measures, such as a general resident fish license."

"In the event we should extend our conservation program to include public hunting and fishing grounds which are so essential in our state at this time, further action will be necessary by the legislature in the way of measures to provide additional income."

"Generally speaking, we believe, with conditions existing as they are in our country today wherein people have more leisure time, it behooves the conservation commission to make every effort to provide them with opportunities for using this leisure time in a profitable manner."

Governor-elect expressed considerable interest in the functioning of the conservation department, and particularly in its fire fighting resources. MacKenzie said that the commission would like to build a sinking fund to prepare for extraordinary demands in dry years which always produce heavy and frequent forest fires.

He also said he would study the recreational publicity division of the department, pointing out that during his campaign he had promised to assist in the development of the vacation areas of the state.

The conservation director estimated that the tourist business brings into the state each year about $250,000,000 in additional income.

Plan Special Services at Three Kimberly Churches

Kimberly — Special services will be held at the three Kimberly churches Christmas eve and Christmas day. The Sunday school pupils of the First Presbyterian church will present a pageant, "The Story Beautiful," on Christmas eve at the church. Mrs. L. C. Smith is director of the program and Miss Jane Ann Malcolm will be the accompanist.

Services at the church will be held at 10 o'clock Sunday morning with a prelude, doxology, Apostles' Creed, Gloria, responsive reading, hymn, "O Come All Ye Faithful," scripture lessons, followed by prayer and the Lord's prayer. The adult choir will sing "Peaceful" and "Holy Night." The Rev. L. C. Smith has chosen for his theme "Lessons from the Christmas Tree." Services will conclude with benediction.

The Rev. W. F. Wichmann, pastor of the Mt. Calvary Evangelical Lutheran church, announced that the children's Christmas eve program will begin at 6:30 Saturday evening at the village hall.

The service, entitled "Paradise," includes four major aspects: "Paradise Regained," "Paradise of the Church," and "The Heavenly Paradise." These parts will be interspersed by songs of the children and congregation.

Following discussion between Governor-elect Julius P. Heil and H. M. MacKenzie, director of the conservation commission, at the state budget hearings.

Heil asked MacKenzie if it would be possible to establish "instruction" shooting ranges in or near the population centers in the state to provide teaching facilities for hunters, adding that "some people should never handle a gun."

The governor-elect also indicated that there should be some sort of test before applicants are granted hunting licenses.

Declaring he wished to become more familiar with the personnel

Chicago Boy Making Brave Fight for Life

Chicago — (P) — Raymond Potter, 14, was making a gallant stand today against a disease that has been overcome by only 11 persons in medical history.

The disease, staphylococcus meningitis, almost invariably is fatal within 48 hours. Raymond has withstood it for 16 days to the amazement of medical experts.

The youngster has had eight blood transfusions since a plea was made for blood donors. More than 150 persons volunteered blood. Yesterday Raymond remained conscious despite a temperature of 105 degrees.

Physicians said staphylococcus was a common form of bacteria and is present on the skin and in the mouth of everyone. It defies medication when it enters the bloodstream and attacks the meninges, or covering around the brain.

Leaking Faucets, Pipes May Cause Abnormal Water Bill

Leaking faucets and slow leaks hidden in the piping or plumbing somewhere are expensive luxuries to have around the house.

Pamphlets available at the Appleton water plant office give statistics on water wastage, how to detect water leaks, how to fix leaking faucets and general information on how to read your meter.

Waste of water is an economic waste for the consumer as well as a waste of natural resource on which we all depend and urges consumers to check water pipes and faucets. In American cities the waste often amounts to two or three times the quantity used.

Statistics show that a dripping faucet will waste 60 cubic feet of water per month. If the faucet has a leak of one thirty-second of an inch, the waste of water will total 1,056 cubic feet per month and will be noticeable on the water bill.

A sixteenth of an inch opening will consume 943 gallons of water daily, 28,300 gallons per month or 3,773 cubic feet each month. Other statistics in the pamphlet show water wastes of various volumes for larger openings.

Invisible causes that produce water wastage include corrosion, which eats through iron service pipes and unequal settlement, which will damage service pipes and cause fractures admitting large leaks.

If the consumption of water in your home appears abnormal, make the following test: Close all water outlets in the house tightly and watch the hand in the meter, marked "ten gallons"

Warning Is Issued Against Tularemia

Madison — The state health department today warned hunters and housewives to be on guard against the disease of tularemia, contracted by the handling of wild rabbits.

Twelve cases of the disease, mainly in nine southern counties, have been reported within the past two months, the department said.

Dr. H. M. Guilford, state epidemiologist, said that tularemia usually is imparted to humans through an abrasion or cut during the skinning and dressing of an infected rabbit.

Dr. Guilford listed three preventive measures as follows:

(1) Rabbit hunters should keep all sores and abrasions of the hands painted with iodine or mercurochrome.

(2) Rubber gloves should be worn while skinning or dressing rabbits.

(3) Rabbit meat should be cooked until none of the flesh remains red in color.

Thelma, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterman of this city, was admitted Sunday to the Clintonville Community hospital where she is seriously ill with pneumonia.

Miss Esther Grunewald of Caroline is a patient at the local hospital, where she recently submitted to an appendectomy.

Lack of Snow Is Causing Concern Over Santa Claus

See Tough Sledding Ahead for Kriss; Colder Tonight

There was nothing in today's weather to complain about—pleasant sun shining from a cloudless sky—but people of these parts are beginning to wonder about what kind of sledding there will be for Christmas.

Sledding wasn't good today and there are only three more days for it to improve so that Santa Claus and his reindeer won't get stuck on a piece of dry pavement in the middle of College avenue. Generally fair and colder tonight, with rising temperature, was the weatherman's forecast today for Appleton and vicinity. He completely ignored mention of snow.

However, forecaster J. R. Lloyd of Chicago predicted today that the midwest would have a "little Christmas" but that the snow necessary to produce it would arrive quite late, the Associated Press reports. Lloyd said that an area of low barometric pressure, which is over Utah today, will reach this region by Friday. Meteorologically, winter begins at 6:14 tomorrow morning, central standard time, that being the beginning of the winter solstice.

Tomorrow will be the shortest day of the year, but Lloyd explained that there is a difference of only a few seconds between today, tomorrow and Friday, each having about nine hours and seven minutes of daylight.

For the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning, the highest mark in the city was 29 and the lowest 20, according to charts at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company. At 12:30 this afternoon, the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent registered 30 degrees.

Miami, Fla., basked in a maximum of 78 degrees yesterday, the warmest reading reported in the nation. Moorhead, Minn., was the coldest spot, with four above.

It Is Said--

That as a woman left the city police station this morning a bright smile gleamed through the tears which had filled her eyes upon her entrance. Her daughter had lost $80 in cash Monday evening and the mother was informed by police that the amount had been found. The money, three $20 bills, was found by an Appleton woman who reported the loss.

That those lovable pets of the home, dogs, sometimes cause their owners as much trouble as pleasure. Yesterday a housewife was seen dashing from her home with a broom in her hands. Her dog was a short distance off engaged in a stiff battle with a bulldog and he seemed to be getting the worst of it. The housewife swung the broom into the air the dog down-swing showed it was intended for the bulldog. However, this bulldog was an agile animal, and snarling, he leaped out of range. The broom descended with a whack against the frozen ground and the woman was left standing with a short piece of the handle still in her hands. A last glimpse saw her chasing the fighting dogs around a neighbor's house.

That the presentation of a new white shirt to Henry Tillman was a highlight at this week's meeting of the Appleton's Lions club.

The purchase of the apparel was authorized by the board of directors of the club after several months of deliberation, during which time Henry never backed down from his you-owe-me-a-shirt stand.

It all started one warm Monday noon last summer when the members plotted a practical joke on Henry, making him the fall guy in a bit of tussling. During the friendly hostilities, Henry's shirt was ripped off his back. He carried an extra spare that day, however, and soon re-appeared spick and span. But he has always felt the club owed him a shirt and this week he collected. It was his right, size, too.

That the displaying of unique and original Christmas cards received from friends is one of the popular pastimes among Appleton people at this time of year.

One that came in the mail this morning to an Appleton man is deserving mention. His friends are about to build a new home. The cover of the card announces that there is "to be a new keyhole" at such and such an address but that the welcome will always be the same. The next three pages carry small blueprint plans of the exterior of the home, the first and second floors.

That William Egert, superintendent of janitors, is all excited about this year about his role as Santa Claus to thousands of Appleton grade school children. Bill makes an ideal Kris Kringle and loves his job. He will visit all the grade schools in the city this week.

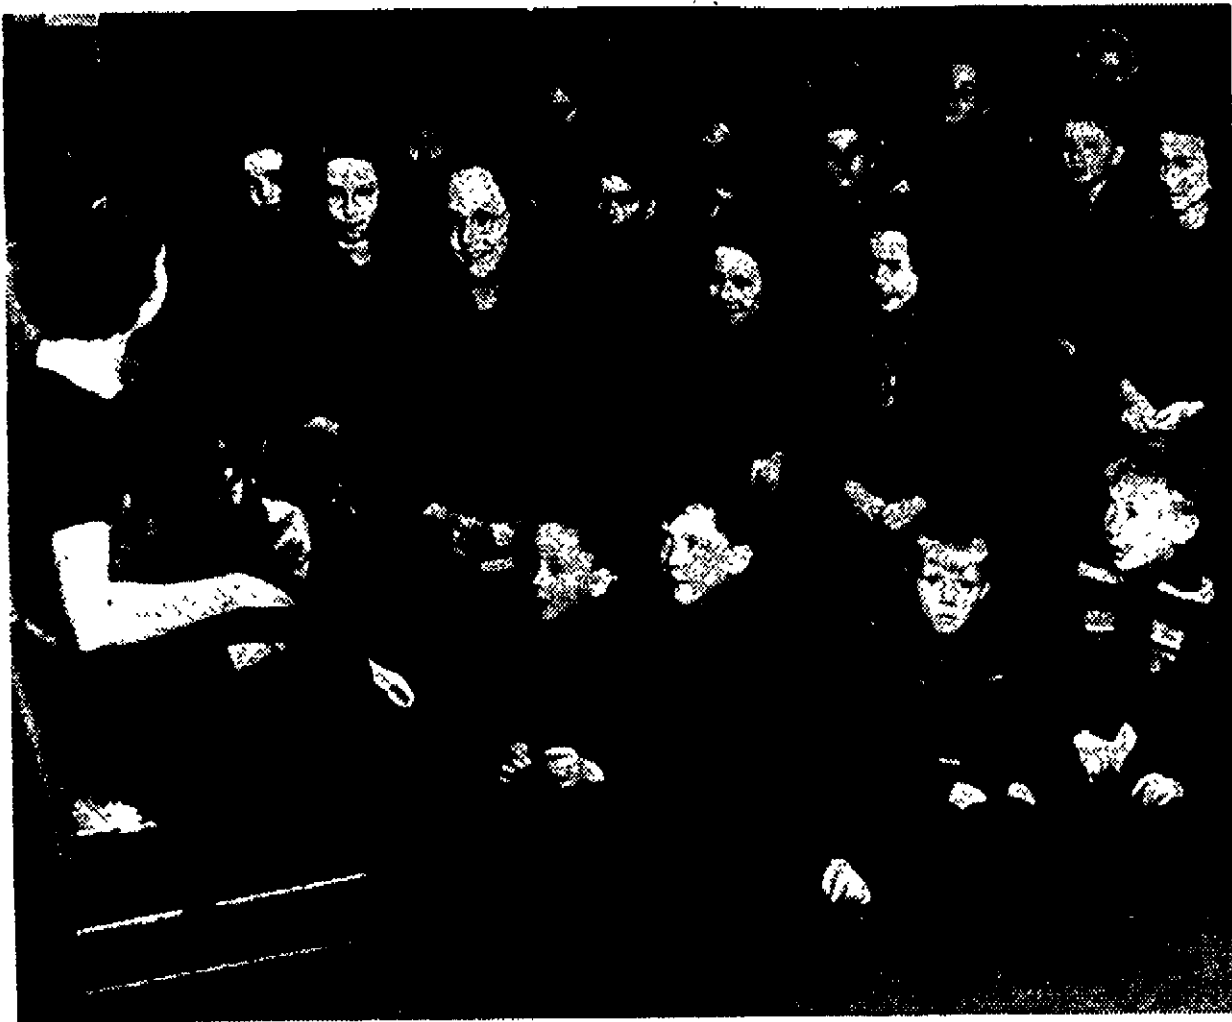

That a pet cat in a tree at 1115 N. Clark street is giving its owner a lot of worry. The cat has been in the tree for two days and won't come down despite all the teasing and coaxing of its owner. This morning the sheriff's department was asked for suggestions on how to entice the cat from its perch.

Births

Twins, a son and a daughter, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zimmer, 1027 W. Commercial street, this morning.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Dietzen, Jr., route 4, Appleton, this morning at St. Elizabeth hospital.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steger, 1415 W. Washington street, this morning at St. Elizabeth hospital.

CHILDREN HEAR CHRISTMAS TALES DURING STORY HOUR

"Happy Prince" was one of the stories told by Miss Dorothy Kotkosky during story hour Saturday morning when this picture was taken at the Appleton Public Library. The photographer bothered the youngsters but the rapid looks still can be seen on some of the children's faces. Miss Kotkosky is seated at the left. Other stories told were about "The Little Old Woman Who Used Her Head" and included "How She Put Up the Christmas Tree" and "How She Spent Christmas Eve." Christmas stories again will be told by Miss Kotkosky at 10 o'clock Saturday morning in the new children's room. (Post-Crescent Photo)

It isn't much of a job to tuck a check or dollar bill into an envelope, address it to the Good Fellows club, care of the Appleton Post-Crescent, and drop it in the nearest mail box. True, it requires a willingness to help those who can't do much about helping themselves. That is what so many people lack.

Illicit Stills Fare Poorly During 1938

In Tri-State Region
Chicago—Bootleggers in the Illinois-Indiana-Wisconsin district, federal officials have disclosed, didn't get much use out of their illicit stills this year.

Consequently, they aren't spending much money on them. There isn't any streamlined stills in the district—most of them are old models and smaller than those operated in pre-prohibition days.

E. C. Yellowley said the average still confiscated this year by agents had been operated only a week before the raid; was of an old model 40-gallon type.

Yellowley said his agents raided 327 stills this year, arrested 747 persons and confiscated 30,791 gallons of spirits and 497,923 gallons of mash. Last year there were 892 raids, 88 arrests and 32,435 gallons of spirits and 717,153 gallons of mash seized.

John Roosevelt Gets Temporary Promotion in Christmas Rush

Horse and Driver are Split After 17 Years

Boston—(AP)—John Roosevelt is about as busy as his father these days—but it is the Christmas rush, not affairs of state.

The lanky, youngest son of the president is contending with the Christmas buying scramble in one of the city's largest department stores, where he started on a business career as a stock room clerk last August.

He takes his job seriously and won't spend Christmas day at the Roosevelt hearthside, but at the nearby Mahant home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. F. Haven Clark.

"I'll hang my stocking here," he smiled, "and I don't know where the rest of the family will be scattered."

Temporary Promotion

John's line now is men's gloves, and he checks movement of sales at a basement counter. The work is easier on his back than the stock room assignment, and it is sort of a temporary promotion during the Christmas season.

"I expect I'll be back at the old job afterward," he added, grinning.

The clerks like him. Moving by a counter he calls to one of them, "How much are these?" and laughs as she turns quickly and grins.

He still likes the work because he is learning the business, but hasn't done any actual selling yet.

Because his job entails checking stock after the doors close, John frequently is one of the last clerks to leave. He makes a run for the train to suburban Brookline where he and his wife, the former Anne Clark, have an apartment.

He enjoys racing for his train and talks like a real commuter—"that's what I like," he says, "a good brisk walk before and after work."

Voices Catholic Attitude Toward Anti-Semitic Laws

Budapest—(AP)—Justinian George Cardinal Seredi, archbishop of Strigonia, in a pastoral letter setting forth the Catholic attitude toward pending anti-Semitic legislation declared today that "all who come to baptism must be received with love."

In the case of adults, including Jews, a three months' probation period would be required during which the applicant for baptism must receive religious instruction for two hours weekly. Marriages are to be examined for validity from a Catholic point of view, the letter said.

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Madison—The signs are becoming unmistakable that leaders of the Republican administration which will soon assume power in Madison have their guns trained at the enactments of Governor La Follette's 1937 special legislation session.

Among those creations is the capitol reorganization program, which appears to have stirred up much criticism among the Republican forces, although some of the G. O. P. critics' comments lead observers to believe they haven't paid attention very closely and that their conception of what really happened is very hazy.

DISCRETION
 Apparently singled out for attack will be the reorganization of the state board of control into the department of social adjustment and the department of mental hygiene, and the consolidation of state welfare departments into the department of social adjustment.

However, if as the new governor says, that reorganization may be repealed, it will be well for the new administration to remember that it was not a solely LaFollette creation.

The division of state welfare work into three departments was explicitly and urgently recommended by a committee of 35 responsible laymen, many of them conservative Republicans of Governor Heil's own political beliefs, who wrote their recommendations after long study.

The approach of the new legislative leaders and the new governor toward that particular feature of the reorganization program concerns many independent observers who approved it.

The questioning of Col. John Hannan and Mrs. Katherine Sullivan of Kaukauna is a good example.

With all respect to Mrs. Sullivan and Colonel Hannan, it may be questioned whether their judgement on a piece of legislation which removes them from their $5,000 jobs will be completely objective.

Both of them, at Heil's urging, testified that the abolition of the board of control and the creation of the two new departments was unwise. Mrs. Sullivan argued that it was modeled on the New York plan which is in no way applicable in Wisconsin. Hannan feared it would cost more money. Neither of them added that the law incidentally took their jobs away from them.

SICK LIST
 It naturally hasn't been talked about publicly to a very great extent, but one of the worries of the Republican legislative caucus is the state of health of two of the Republican senators.

Senator-Elect Fischer of Waupaca is reported to be ill, while veteran Oscar Morris of Milwaukee has been ill since the middle of the last legislative session. Whether they will be able to take their seats next month is worrying the senate Republican chiefs.

One of the criticisms which has been most consistently directed at the Wisconsin civil service system is the fact that the civil service law tends to "freeze" state employees in their jobs.

In order to protect state servants against arbitrary discrimination on account of race, creed or political beliefs, an elaborate and cumbersome system of job protection has been established. No employee can be fired, in effect, without a lot of costly and time-consuming negotiation. Every state servant has the right of appeal to the bureau of personnel when a department head dismisses him, and has the further right to appeal to the courts.

Not long ago a nurse at the Northern state hospital at Winnebago was dismissed by the superintendent. She appealed to the state civil service body, to the circuit court, and finally to the state supreme court, in all a matter of many months.

The net result has been that discharges from the state service have been exceptionally scarce, certainly far fewer than in private employment.

Now it appears that this situation will be examined, with a view to allowing department heads to discharge employees with less inconvenience.

CURIOUS FARLEY
 National Democratic Chairman James Farley is showing an unusual interest in state political affairs.

Lately he held a conference with the organization leadership of the Democrats in Chicago, the conference which supposedly resulted in a promise to return New Deal patronage to the organization in Wisconsin.

However, his curiosity about the state of affairs here was apparently not satisfied entirely at that meeting. He has since written to other Democrats not so closely identified with the organization and asked for an explanation of the Wisconsin election this fall. If its any consolation to a state which has just gone overwhelmingly Republican, the national Democratic chieftain has his eyes on it.

TENDER SKIN
 The sophomores outburst by a university of Wisconsin student last week which so riled Mr. Heil probably has given far more attention than it deserved, but it was significant for one thing: It showed a sensitiveness in the new chief executive which was heretofore unexpected.

If Julius Heil is going to oppose every time someone offers a criticism in plain language during the next two years, he will be a man too busy to attend to the affairs of the state. Politicians are supposed to have thick skins.

Generally unnoticed in the excitement of the student's "brainless idiot" remark is the fact that Mrs. Isabel LaFollette, wife of the retiring governor, had written practically the same thing at the same time in the Progressive newspaper. The new governor, she said, displays "an abysmal comprehension," which, of course, is more refined phrasing.

ANSWER
 This will interest the hopeful Republican job-seekers: In answer to a direct question by this department the other day, Governor-Elect Heil said that he has yet given no consideration whatever to the men he will appoint to state offices and commissions during his term, all rumors to the contrary.

Contrary to popular belief, New Orleans is not located at the mouth of the Mississippi River, but about 100 miles from the Gulf of Mexico, into which the river empties.

Post-Crescent Camera Finds Last Minute Gifts!

NO MATTER HOW LONG or short your Christmas gift list may be, we are sure that books have a big place in it. Pettibone's book shop snapped by the Post-Crescent photographer and shown above, has a wide variety of gifts you can buy — books that will carry their own welcome with them wherever they go. The new fiction is here; interesting books for those who like more substantial reading; books of popular poetry; books on travel and biography. Children's books, too, for all ages from little tots to adolescent boys and girls. Books for Christmas this year can mean happiness for many years.

AMONG THE SMARTEST of gifts is this beautiful, Leopard fur coat at Grist Furs, and the smart gift giver will find that Grist's modest prices plus convenient terms makes it possible to select just such a gift right now. The complete selection of furs at Grist's adds to the desirability of a visit to this famous fur headquarters, as does Grist's reputation for quality.

THIS INTERIOR VIEW of Petersen Clothing gives an idea of the complete stock of men's gifts that awaits those who will be concluding their Christmas shopping within the next few days. Just for example, this store for men offers a wide range of neckties, handkerchiefs, robes, pajamas, sweaters, shirts, gloves, and other accessories and there are few men who can't be properly fitted and completely pleased at Petersen's. The impressive street display window at Petersen's is a real boon to many shoppers who focus their "gift camera eyes" and snap a pleasing mental picture.

SANTA CLAUS IS HERE for a certainty, just as the camera indicates above, where the old gentleman was photographed at Geenen's. Also indicated is the fact that Geenen's stock of gift toiletries is remarkably complete and offers last-minute gift shoppers a splendid opportunity to make wise selections. Experienced salespeople, who know what women appreciate most in toiletries, are ready to help the masculine shopper who might otherwise be at a loss to make the right selection. Like other leading stores, Geenen's will be open every evening this week except Christmas eve.

THERE ARE 1929 STYLES in slippers, and at Heckert's, famous for footwear, will be found a brand new shipment. The view above shows the attractive interior of the Heckert Shoe Company, where shopping has been made both easy and pleasant. Dancing pumps and other footwear combine with hosiery to establish Heckert's as the logical place to conclude this season's shopping.

THE GIFT WRAPPING DEPARTMENT at Pettibone's is a genuine boon to hurried Christmas shoppers who have not time to wrap their own packages. It's also a big help to women who have no knack of tying perky bows or assembling just the right papers, seals, ribbons and decorations. For men shoppers it is simply indispensable — they have either time nor desire to fuss with the intricacies of wrapping packages artistically. A beautiful appearance makes the most simple gift seem more valuable and more personal. A trip to the gift wrapping department where the saleswomen understand this charming art will end most worries.

THE STORE OF A THOUSAND last-minute gifts that click just as much as if they had been planned and purchased long ago, is the S. S. Kresge Co., 110 W. College avenue. Department after department is jam-packed with truly quality gifts at very modest prices. A glance at the busy scene above will show both how popular Kresge's is with gift buyers who like to make their dollars do extra duty, and how wide a variety of gifts can be obtained here. No matter what names — or how many — are left on the list, there's sure to be a Kresge gift that will fill the bill precisely.

UNIQUE IN ACTUALITY as well as in name is Tews' Unique Frack Shoppe, 107 S. Appleton street. The photographer snapped this view as a customer was admiring one of the Unique's gorgeous house coats. The photograph gives just a suggestion of the wide variety of gifts to be found at the Unique, for there are robes, hosiery, sweaters, aprons, and many other items.

THE GIFT RECIPIENT with a flair for sports will be mightily pleased if a portion of Santa's offerings next Sunday morning turn out to have come from Sears Roebuck sporting goods department. From the amount of activity in this department, incidentally, it looks very much as though a lot of people with the sports bug are going to be happy. Sears complete line of items, of which bicycles, guns, skis, skates, balls, traps and ammunition are visible in the photograph above. Priced at remarkably low levels, these gifts make possible a thrifty, sporting Christmas.

Sonja Henie Has Upset American Style of Skating

Ice Sport Has Become Serious Business With Average Person

BY GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK — (P) — While she is a pretty girl and an accomplished skater, Sonja Henie must be charged with having made a lot of show-off Sues and fancy Dances out of this country's ice skaters.

Before the Norse maid showed up in her skimpy costumes and began doing splits and whirls to spotlights and soft music, the average simple soul had regarded ice skating primarily as fun, a means of skimming along speedily with a minimum of effort.

Now it is a serious business. The Rockefeller center pond is right across the street and some stories down from the new offices of the Associated Press, in perfect staling distance, so this is written with some authority.

Wear Fancy Clothes

They are out there day and night cutting didoes, and dressed up fit to kill. None has yet been seen wearing plain, everyday ice skating clothes and simply skating around and around the place like it was a pleasure.

Probably such an interloper would be handed a copy of the rink rules and be advised to seek his bucolic entertainment elsewhere, preferably at some secluded spot.

The skaters, ranging in age from about 5 to 65, go at their school figures and dip-pees like there was a movie scout lurking behind every foot of the hedge surrounding the pool and five more clustered in the branches of the 50-foot Christmas tree on the upper bank.

Some of the performers look like they could do with a lesson or two in plain round-around skating, for they wobble badly on the fancy stuff. As they pirouette they leave something to be desired, and do not resemble either Sonja Henie or Hazel Franklin except in their earnestness of effort. Probably they never shall.

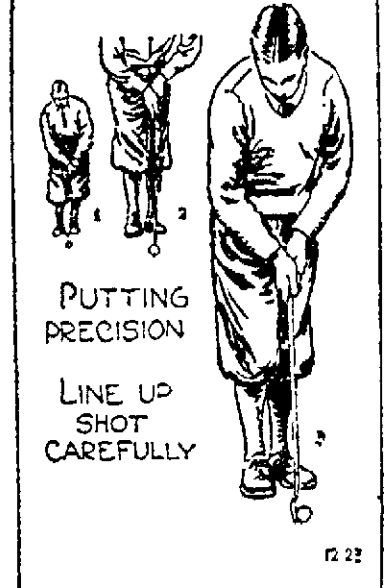

At the writing, one striver of some 40 winters has for an hour devoted herself to perfecting the first half of a figure-eight, that is, she has been going around in a circle on one foot, her arms extended gracefully. Now and then she stops to inspect her skate marks absently.

Oblivious to Others
"Any day now she'll get up nerve to make herself a whole figure-eight at once," observed a spectator, evidently a regular patron. "Then she'll go looking for a job in the ice follies."

The more advanced of the exhibitionists appear totally oblivious to the presence of fellow humans on the ice, and it is a wonder that four or five of them are not carried out on stretchers daily. In his mind's eye each one obviously is out there all alone, dipping and gliding like a gull in flight, while the crowd goes wild. Unfortunately, the Rockefeller center critics are too cold to take their hands out of their pockets.

GRAPHIC GOLF

BY BEST BALL

PUTTING

Putting is practically half of golf, as a stroke analysis of par for any course will reveal, yet the practice sessions devoted to putting usually measure far less than half of the total. Winter provides an occasion for evaluating up this discrepancy, as the rate for putting can be practiced in the home provided the golfer has a reasonably good putting green. In the hurry of a game, it is that many players have no set system but are continually experimenting, hoping that this putt will be better than their last. As a result they rarely know the natural improvement that should be theirs.

Consistent practice during the shut in months should give one a good formula for putting. Particularly important is the first stage; that of lining up the shot and adjusting the clubhead at right angles to it. Bobby Jones for example, as illustrated here, sights the line from back of the ball, then adopts his stance and, with the clubhead poised over it at right angles, lines up the ball with this line. The next stage is adjusting the clubhead back of the ball so that it will travel straight along this line. These necessary preliminary stages to the actual putt enable the golfer to get better precision and also gain a measure of relaxation for the actual stroke.

1938 The Year In Sports

Tennis

BY DILLON GRAHAM
AP Feature Service Writer

NEW YORK — (P) — Tennis crowned its first grand-slam champion in 1938: carrot-thatched Donald Budge, king of Australian, French, British and American courts, who promptly renounced his thrones for a pot of gold.

Budge, the gangling California master, was the outstanding figure in a year that saw the U. S. defend the Davis cup, an American sweep in the Wimbledon (Eng.) championships, and another sharp chapter in the spectacular Helen Wills Moody-Helen Jacobs rivalry.

The domestic scene pictured the rise of cocky young Bobby Riggs of Chicago to a Davis cup singles berth after triumphs at Longwood.

SECOND in A Series

Seabright, Southampton, Rye and in the National clay courts championship. It also was featured by a succession of astonishing upsets in the American singles championships, including Riggs' defeat by Gil Hunt; doubles-player Gene Mako's triumph over Aussie Jack Bromwich; and others to reach the finals against Budge, and the elimination of Helen Jacobs by England's Margaret Lomb.

There was nothing spectacular or colorful, no suspense or drama, to Budge's exploits. He was just one routine victory after another.

One By One

His match began with a triumph over Jack Bromwich in Australia. Then he won the French crown, defeating Roderich Menzel of Czechoslovakia. Next came the British diadem, gained easily against Bunny Austin. And finally the knighting of the four-peat string with an American triumph over his close friend and doubles mate, Mako.

Budge led the defense of the Davis cup at Germantown, Pa., against Australia, beating Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich. Riggs, the youthful newcomer, gave the U. S. an advantage by whipping Quist in the opening match. Bromwich and Quist rallied to take the doubles event from the Budge-Mako duo. Bromwich beat Riggs in the last unimportant match. The U. S. thus won 3-2.

Previously, Budge and Mako had beaten the Australian pair to win the U. S. doubles.

Soon after clinching his grand slam, Budge abdicated to join the professionals and collect some $75,000 in a tour next year with Ellis-von Vines. His going darkened U. S. hopes of retaining the Davis cup next season.

Moody Vs. Jacobs
Even Budge's triumphant advance was overshadowed as public interest was attracted to the Moody-Jacobs episode on the historic Wimbledon center-court.

Mrs. Moody had come out of retirement to pace the U. S. Wimbledon cup team to a 5-2 decision over the British. Moving into the Wimbledon singles, she drove through to the finals, where her opponent was Helen Jacobs, her arch-foe of the courts. A great match was envisioned in the first meeting of these duellists since Mrs. Moody won in the 1936 Wimbledon championships.

Miss Jacobs was slightly ahead in the first set when she pulled a tendon in her right leg. Without suggesting a rest, her opponent speaking to her stricken foe, Mrs. Moody placed her hobbling opponent and quickly ran out her eighth Wimbledon championship.

Upon her return for the American championships, in which Miss Jacobs was entered and a return match anticipated, Mrs. Moody announced she would not play because of neuritis. She returned her British trip expense money to the U. S. L. T. A., since players financed abroad are supposed to play in the home championship. But the startled U. S. L. T. A. gave it back. Mrs. Moody's withdrawal was in some quarters regarded as a possible farewell to tennis.

Alice Marble Wins
The U. S. women's championship came back to this country as Alice Marble beat Nancy Wynne of Australia in straight sets. Miss Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fry won the U. S. doubles.

Americans made a clean sweep of the Wimbledon championships, for, in addition to singles victories by Budge and Mrs. Moody, Budge and Mako won the men's doubles and the Marble-Fry combination took the women's doubles.

Former greats Sidney Wood, Wilmer Allison and Frank Shields essayed comebacks with Wood reaching the U. S. singles semi-finals against Budge.

Joe and Gil Hunt and Charles Kovacs were perhaps the brightest prospects developed.

Death claimed the famous French star of other years, Suzanne Lenglen.

Duke to Hold Workouts In Arkansas and Texas

Pine Bluff, Ark. — (P) — The mighty Duke Devils of Duke university, en route to Pasadena, Calif., to play in the Rose bowl against Southern California Jan. 2, selected Pine Bluff today for their first workout on route.

About 120 persons were on the Blue Devil special yesterday when it pulled out of Durham, N. C., amid a great ovation of college supporters and townspeople.

The team took with it a record of having won nine games during the season, and not once was it tied, scored upon or defeated.

Another stop for practice will be made tomorrow at Lubbock, Texas. The train will arrive in Los Angeles Saturday morning about 9 o'clock.

ALICE MARBLE AND DONALD BUDGE
They were the queen and king of American tennis. Budge, voted the Man of the Year in sports in the AP national poll, scored a "grand slam," winning the world's four major single titles. He enabled the U. S. to defend the Davis cup and shortly afterwards turned professional.

However, Hoier got the range and sank a long one as the quarter ended 9 to 4 and then continued into the second stanza to ring up two more and sink two charity shots to take a 10 to 9 lead in less than a minute of play.

The Stacymen bogged down again, however, to let the Menashas gain a 16 to 12 lead at the half. The locals set a fast pace to knot it at 16-all early in the second half, but the third quarter closed with the locals trailing again, 22 to 20.

Score Tied at 25-all Lankstrom potted a bucket to lead 25 to 20 as the final drive began. Then Meiklejohn pushed one in, Wally Hammerberg converted on a double foul and Stevie Hammerberg dumped another to tie at 25-all. The foul line came into prominence and a successful toss by Hoier gave a 1-point edge. Meiklejohn scored again and S. Hammerberg and Hoier added two at the foul line to lead 26 to 30. With three minutes left Resch, leading Menasha scorer, desperately swished a long shot from the center of the floor and Kuester followed up for another quick one to trail only one point. When Hammerberg dribbled in for another bucket with less than a minute the Stacymen stalled and collected another point on a foul before the end.

Hartnett Confident Cubs are Stronger as Result of Trades

CHICAGO — (P) — Gabby Hartnett, filled with the benevolent holiday spirit, assured supporters of his Chicago Cubs today the team was stronger now than it was as a 1938 pennant winner.

The jovial Cub manager is back in town after doing a bit of trading at the major league meeting in New York and visiting relatives in New England.

Hartnett said he still was after players to strengthen the Cubs, but didn't name the men he wants.

"More Possibilities"
"But even if nothing develops," he said, "I'm sure we have a better club than we had last season, and one that has more possibilities."

Taking a long-range glance at the 1939 race, Gabby named the New York Giants, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati as "the teams to beat."

"The St. Louis Cardinals still have the best batting strength, and the most speed, so if they do something about defensive and pitching weaknesses, they can make trouble for anybody," he added. "I'd rate the Cards and Reds as the danger spots in the league."

Sees Tight Race
"While I don't think either Boston, getting more hitting, or Brooklyn, getting a lot of new players, have built themselves into contenders, I can see where they will help tighten up the race a lot."

Gabby figures the Cubs were strengthened more than the Giants by the deal which sent shortstop Bill Jurgens, catcher Ken O'Dea and outfielder Frank Demaree to New York for catcher Gus Mancuso, shortstop Dick Bartell and outfielder Hank Leibert.

The Cubs have been trying to obtain a couple of hard hitters for first base and the outfield to give the club more punch. The team which won the 1938 flag rated no better than fifth in club batting,

Terrors Defeat Fond du Lac in Overtime Period

Werner missed two free throws for Appleton but after the second miss, Fraser followed up for the first Terror basket.

G. Wilderman sank a basket for Fondy to make the total 9 to 4 and Appleton added two free throws to make it 9 to 6. Here the Cardinals staged another spurt and Zoelle scored. G. Wilderman followed up after a missed free throw and Gores counted on a fast break. The score stood 15 to 6 at the quarter and Fond du Lac had more points than it was destined to get for the remainder of the evening.

Terrors Get Going

As the second quarter opened it was Appleton's turn to burn things up. Fraser followed up for two points. A moment later he took a long pass from Bailey and put the ball through the hoop unmolested. Then Bailey tossed in a one-handed shot and Appleton was back in the contest, 15 to 12, with four minutes gone.

Buesing added a pair of free throws about this time but Fond du Lac got them back. Just before the half ended Bailey tossed a free throw and the count stood, 17 to 15, for Fond du Lac as the half ended.

As the second half opened Appleton was using a zone defense instead of the man-for-man used during the first half. When Bailey dribbled through the Fond du Lac defense, Appleton tied the score at 17-all. A gift shot put Fond du Lac back in front but not for long. Fraser picked himself up off the floor after a bad spill, hobbled around on his bad foot and then stepped up and sank two free throws.

A moment later he added another and Appleton led 20 to 18. A Fondy free throw sliced off a point from the Terror lead, but when Fraser got another basket with Buesing getting the ball to him, and Buesing added a free throw, the third stanza ended with Appleton enjoying a 23 to 20 margin. Shortly after the quarter opened, Fond du Lac lost G. Wilderman on personals, but his passing had failed to weaken the Cardinal defense.

Black Scores

John Black went into the game for Buesing as the fourth period opened and when he pushed in the followup shot, Appleton was in front, 25 to 21. Fondy having acquired a point on a free throw, then Zoelle got away from the Terror defense, dashed down the floor and dumped a basket as Morris fouled him. He missed the free throw but the score stood, 25 to 23, for Appleton.

Less than a minute later he grabbed a tip on a held ball and again broke away to dribble under the hoop and score and tie the count at 25-all. With less than three minutes to go, Werner put Appleton in front with a free throw, 26 to 23, and every heart in the gym started to pick up beats or perhaps skip a few.

As the final minute was being ticked off, Boyle, Fond du Lac's reserve center, was allowed too much freedom by the Appleton defense and he followed up a shot to put Fond du Lac in the lead, 27 to 26. With his shot the crowd set up a din that almost shattered ear drums.

Morris Ties Score

Appleton took the ball in from out of bounds and started down the floor. Fondy, in its desire to blanket the Terrors, was too anxious and Gores spilled Wes Morris on the floor when he played him too close. As Wes stepped to the free throw line there was just five seconds of play remaining. After a

Chaffin Chatter

By Gordon H. McIntyre

THINGS being rather slow hereabouts today, we resorted to this morning for a column. Here's something from Ronald McIntyre of the Milwaukee Sentinel about Phil Zwick, Kaukauna boxer, and the article following it is the work of one of Roundy Coughlin's contributors at Madison about Byron Bell, Neenah, member of the Wisconsin cage team:

Phil Zwick, the 126-pound package of dynamite from Kaukauna, was another visitor Tuesday night. Zwick, English accent and all, dropped in to say that he would love to fight in Milwaukee sometime but expressed the idea that it might not be possible.

"I've been offered several fights in your city," said Zwick, "but each time something happened that I didn't get them. One of your promoters said I asked for too much money but do you think $350 for a main event fighter is too much?"

"Years ago, more than I care to remember, every time I fought in Milwaukee, the promoter always made money. I'm one of those kind of fighters who realizes that if the promoter can't make money that

Reidar Anderson to Seek Ski Jump Marks

NEW YORK — (P) — Reidar Anderson of Norway, who looked like a sure Olympic champion at ski jumping in 1932 but didn't even get a chance to compete, has returned to demonstrate his ability to American winter sports fans. He was injured in practice for the 1932 Olympics after setting a record of 237 feet for the Lake Placid jump. He has jumped nearly 340 feet at Planica, Yugoslavia.

Anderson arrived yesterday and after a brief tuning-up period at Lake Placid will take off on a transcontinental tour, ending with a competition to be held at San Francisco Feb. 18-19.

couple hurried questions of the timekeeper as to the seconds left, and during which Morris managed to relax completely, he tossed the ball through the net and Appleton was tied and Appleton followers were doing their dance. Before the ball could be gotten down to mid-floor by Fond du Lac, the regulation period ended.

A five minute rest followed while the fans calmed themselves as much as they could, and the caers left the floor to rest and get a few hurried instructions. Shortly after the tip at center, Morris pushed through a pass to Fraser as he cut under the hoop. The ball went through and Appleton led. Bob Bailey then fouled Schroeder who made the shot as Bailey left the game on personals and Bud DeLeest replaced him and finished like a veteran. Morris and Fraser repeated their act to give the Terrors a 31 to 28 lead but Werner's fourth personal forced him from the game and gave Fond du Lac a point. In the final minute, the ball went to Fraser on a tip by Morris and for the third time in the third minute period, he canned it.

Dupee's Free Toss Gives Wisconsin Win Over Xavier

Defeat Is First for the Musketeers This Season; Score 27-26

CINCINNATI, O. — (P) — Dave Dupee, Badger forward, broke a tie score with a free throw in the closing seconds of a basketball game here last night to give the University of Wisconsin a 27 to 26 victory over the Xavier University Musketeers.

Dupee missed his first of two gift shots, and then dropped the next through the hoop to break Wisconsin's two game losing streak.

It was Xavier's first defeat of the season. A crowd of 2,000 saw the game.

The Musketeers took an early 13 to 6 lead, but had only a 17-16 edge at the halftime as the Badgers began to find the range.

In the second period both teams set up a tight defense, racing neck and neck to a 20-all tie until the Badgers broke away to a 26 to 22 lead on three points by Bell and one by Davis, all from the foul line.

Coach Cal Crowe of Xavier then sent in forward Roy Neary who sank two quick shots to tie the score. With seconds to go Al Howe, Xavier guard, fouled Dupee as the Badger guard charged in for a short shot, and Dupee dropped in the winning point.

Donovan, Xavier forward, led the losers with eight points. Three Badgers, Smith, Dupee and Englund, tied with six apiece.

Aldermen Argue Timber Dispute Council Votes to Take Possession of Wood Cut on City Land

New London—A mild row occurred in the New London council chambers when the case of Edward Kalwitz, 336 Shawano street, was brought before the aldermen last night.

Alderman Lynn Springmire told the council that Kalwitz, who last summer donated to the city several acres of land north of Waupaca street along the Embarras river, had recently cut 25 to 30 cords of young timber wood off the property without permission.

Appearing in his own defense, Kalwitz told the council that he had received permission from City Attorney Putnam to cut the wood. Putnam denied the charge, saying he had told Kalwitz he didn't think anyone would mind if he picked up the dead wood laying around. He said he didn't know Kalwitz planned to cut wood.

Asked why he continued cutting after police had told him to stop, Kalwitz said that when he was called into Putnam's office, Alderman A. R. Margraff of the Fourth ward was there and told him that as long as he had started he may as well finish. Margraff, who had been mildly supporting Kalwitz, indignantly blamed the charge to a misunderstanding.

Kalwitz claimed the wood he cut was burned around the stump and was no good anyway but other aldermen who had inspected the lot reported otherwise. In the heat of argument, Mayor E. W. Wendlandt asked for a motion and settlement of the problem.

To avoid a precedent of allowing wood on city property to be cut, Springmire motioned that the city take possession of the wood cut by Kalwitz and drop the matter there.

In the vote Aldermen William Lits, Theodore Thomas and Frank Meakle voted no but the action carried.

City Buys Wood For Relief Use

Name of Maine Street Will be Changed To Algoma

New London—A contract for 5,000 cords of stump wood for relief use, enough to last for two seasons, was ordered by the common council at a short business meeting last night. The wood will be contracted at 50 cents a cord, payable as cut.

The wood ordered purchased is on land owned by Francis Werner near the Groher tract but the contract was arranged to be acceptable to a prospective purchaser of the land. About five weeks' cutting remains on the Groher lot.

City Attorney Giles H. Putnam was instructed to draw up a new ordinance changing the name of Maine street to Algoma street. The change was petitioned by residents as a result of the house numbering project in the city.

The board of public works was authorized to purchase five tons of calcium chloride to mix with sand for covering icy spots on the city's streets.

A communication was read from the state industrial commission, naming the city co-defendant with Clintonville to establish the legal residence a relief recipient. A bill of $17.16 for aid received in January, 1937, was refused by both cities. To remove responsibility for costs since that time, City Attorney Putnam was instructed to carry out the city's defense.

Children's Slide Is Erected at Erb Park

The Appleton Park board Saturday purchased a sled slide which is being erected at Erb park for children living in that vicinity, according to Erik Madison, secretary.

The slide will be iced and is being placed near the ice skating rink. It will be used as a chute-the-chute during the summer months.

Painting of Three Wise Men Erected at School

A mural painting of the three wise men riding their camels in the desert, painted by Peter Giovannini, art director at Appleton High school, has been erected in the main floor stair well at the new senior high school. Electric bulbs installed by Harry Cameron, manual arts instructor, light the mural.

Board Buys Plow To Clear Ice Rinks

After Heavy Snows
Ice skating enthusiasts won't have to wait long to get on park board rinks after a heavy snow fall this year for the board has purchased a scraper blade of its own to plow clear rinks.

The blade will be attached to the front of one of the park board trucks and will be put to work as soon as the snow stops falling. The plow also will be used to clear roads and sidewalks on City and Pierce parks. In other years, the board was forced to wait until the city finished clearing streets before a plow could be released to the rinks.

Two rinks were flooded at Jones park last Saturday and both were improved Monday. A light snow yesterday afternoon interfered with

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

Shapely BONITA GRANVILLE endorses this deep breathing exercise. Standing in good posture she slowly raises arms as she slowly inhales. Then she quickly throws back her arms as she quickly exhales. This exercise keeps her chest well lifted and beautifully firm.

EXERCISE MOST IMPORTANT TO DEVELOP SMALL BUST
Sometimes I wish I could turn into a Bust Exchange! For all the girls and women with small busts want to know how to develop larger busts, and all the big-bosomed girls want me to give them a magic formula for reducing their bust line.

The truth of the matter — or the secret formula to a beautiful figure — is EXERCISE IS REQUIRED! Exercise is required to reduce or to add weight. Exercise is required to distribute flesh proportionately and to keep fresh beauty in your face. Exercise is necessary to acquire a beautiful bustline. But even though women know this, how many of you, my readers, will actually exercise?

It is pretty discouraging to be a beauty editor and to spend time ferreting out reliable movements to make you more beautiful females, if you just keep on in your lazy, indifferent way of living, why not give the exercises a chance to show what they can do for you? Take my bust exercises for instances.

Regularity Essential
Any growing girl, and many grown women, can make their bustline more beautiful by devoting just a very few minutes each day to correcting their postures

Patri Asks Children to Help Any Child Who Is Handicapped

BY ANGELO PATRI
Dear Children: I am writing to ask you to help a child who is suffering from thoughtlessness. She is a sweet, kindly, gentle child who was born with deformed feet. Her grief-stricken mother and father took her to the hospital when she was only a few days old to have those poor, twisted feet straightened.

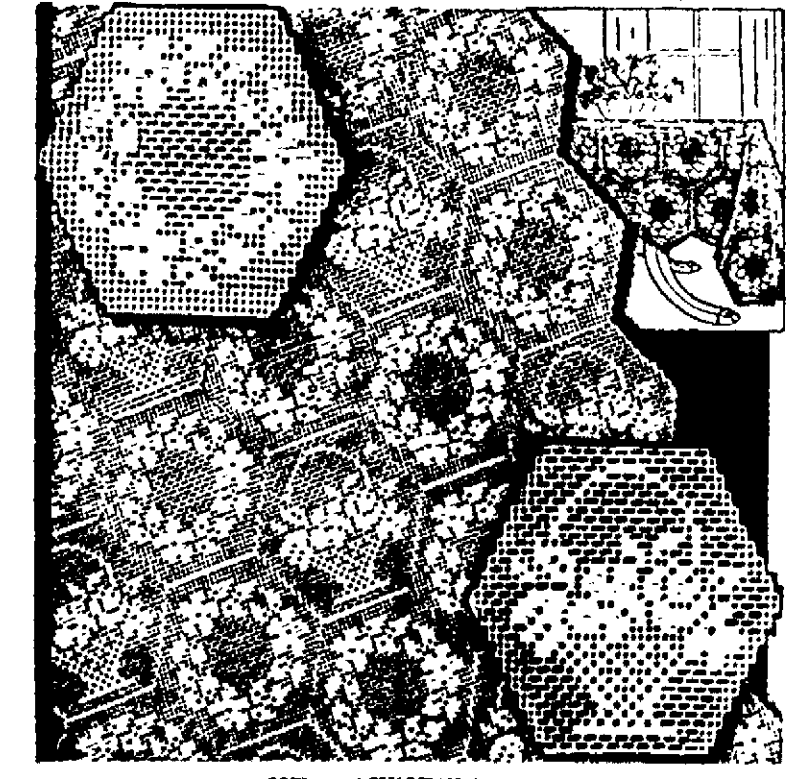

The doctors were very kind, for doctors know how sad it is for children whose feet cannot run and dance and jump about in playtime. Every month or so this little girl was carried to the hospital and the doctors operated on her feet. At last she could walk, with a limp, but she did not mind that as long as she could get about with other children. She has to wear queer shoes to keep her feet growing straight and strong, and she has to wear a brace. But remember, she loves to play with the other children at recess time.

You would think that these other children would be kind and thoughtful about this little girl, wouldn't you? Some are, some are not. What I am asking you to do is just this: Please help any child who is lame. Appear to some bright, kind, faithful child to help this other one. Not that it is necessary to do things for this child, but that it is necessary for him to have a friend at hand to help if help is needed. Open a door, stand between the lame child and the rush of happy children. Give him a lift with his books if he is carrying too many. Just see that he gets a fair chance with no roughness. That is all he asks.

These lame children are proud just as you are. They do not want to be looked upon as helpless, a burden on other people. But they need the help that thoughtful friends can give without calling attention to the need for it. You know how to do this better than I can tell you. I know I need only mention it to you to have it done.

Watch out for the thoughtless, younger — he is always very, very healthy — who calls the lame child names, makes fun of him, shoves him aside and puts him out of the

Short Suit Opener Not Always Best

BY ELY CULBERTSON

To my pleased surprise, the percentage of correctness on question 15 was very high. This question was:
You are East, defending against a three no trump contract. Your hand and dummy are as follows:

DUMMY	YOU
♠ A 8 2	♠ K 4
♥ K 7 3	♥ A Q 10 6 5
♦ K Q 10 9 6	♦ 7 4
♣ A Q	♣ 6 5 3 2

West, your partner, opens the spade jack and dummy plays the deuce. In a few words, state your best defense as you see it. What is your "hope"?

The correct play by East was, of course, to win with the spade king and immediately to shift to a low heart, preferably the six spot. I pointed out that, on the bidding and the cards in sight, the one chance of defeating the contract was to find West with a diamond stopper and at least two hearts. Upon taking his diamond stopper, he would be able to return his remaining heart through dummy's K-7, and East then could run off his entire heart suit. As I say, a great many contestants answered correctly, but unfortunately a couple of thousand could see only one "hope." That was for West to hold the heart jack. With that hope in mind these 2,000 returned a club, spade, or diamond, hoping that partner eventually would get on lead with the diamond ace and "would have the imagination to lead the heart jack through dummy." This would be excellent, but why should East be so needlessly optimistic? Granting that the heart jack in West's hand (with the diamond ace), plus enough vision on West's part to lead the heart jack, would result in five heart tricks for East-West, it still seems to me somewhat safer for East to play his partner, not for such a specific card as the heart jack, but for any two or three hearts.

The bidding:

1 diamond	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

I have presented so many hands in which short suit openings against no trump bids result beautifully that I think it only fair to the opposition party to report one in which such a lead turned into a defensive Waterloo.

West, anxious to protect his heart and club holdings, selected the eight of spades as the opening lead. Dummy ducked, and East's queen fell to declarer's ace. A low diamond was led to the king, and a low spade was returned from dummy. East attempted to mask his batteries by ducking, but declarer was not to be denied. He felt morally certain that West would not have played the eight of spades if he had held the nine spot. Hence, at this point declarer put in the seven. It held, and the spade jack then was laid down, West discarding the deuce of clubs for reasons best known to himself. East won and, observing his partner's club signal, excited with a spade. Dummy won, and the diamond suit then was run off. Both defenders discarded hearts. Both defenders discarded hearts. Both defenders discarded hearts. Both defenders discarded hearts. Both defenders discarded hearts.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Martin's experiences illustrate how a business man can be "penny wise but pound foolish." If you are dealing with the public, be sure you don't overlook the importance of children in your financial success.

CASE M-103: Martin J., aged 7, is a normal youngster. "Mother wants a loaf of bread," he told his grocer, but the latter ignored him in order to wait on an adult customer.

This adult had come in later than Martin, so it was really Martin's turn to be served.

But the grocer, like too many business and professional men, forgot the future implications of his rudeness to a child, in his desire to cater to adult trade.

The scene now shifts 20 years. Martin is a successful man, married, and living in the same community. But he always skips this grocer and patronizes the rival store across the street.

I obtained this story from Martin when I was a guest in his home recently. We strolled over to the grocery store for some provisions which his wife wanted.

Because he passed up the logical store and crossed the street to another, I asked him why he skipped the nearby grocer. And he gave me the reason mentioned above.

Children In Business
When Dr. Samuel Johnson in 1759 wrote that "the trade of advertising is now so near perfection that it is not easy to make any improvement," he hadn't seen anything yet!

With the ingenious modern commercial appeals, especially those to children, we are witnessing a new trend in business. Advertisers are enlisting the cooperation of youngsters by means of comic puzzles, prize contests and juvenile souvenirs of various sorts.

A few years ago I made a survey of the importance of children in our current buying habits. The results were surprising.

Many automobile owners were purchasing a certain brand of gasoline, not because it was the most highly advertised by the usual methods, but because at each filling station their children could have free souvenirs.

And youngsters can certainly spread the "talk up" for a given product. Send one child into a playground group or a school with an interesting little advertising gadget or free souvenir, and you'll have hundreds of families in that neighborhood changing their buying habits, at the request of their youngsters.

Be Honest With Children
Remember, too, that children can detect the fawning type of insincerity so often seen on the part of salesmen. They usually know whether you are putting on an act for the benefit of their parents, using them as pawns in the deal.

If a child enters your store ahead of an adult, he deserves priority. And if you fail to honor his rights as a buyer, you suffer for it.

Youngsters soon report to their mother on these affronts. And if you don't lose a customer immediately, you may find that, as in Martin's case, you lose a family 10 years later.

In a survey of patients of dentists which I made three years ago, I found that a number of patients rated their childhood dentists low because the dentists had been gruff or surly.

Actually, those dentists had probably been preoccupied. They hadn't been gruff to an adult's way of thinking. But anything said to a child without a smile or evidence of friendliness, is likely to be wrongly interpreted.

Send me a long, self-addressed envelope with 6c postage thereon if you wish my bulletin on The Psychology of Advertising and Selling.

Woman Should be Privileged To Voice Marriage Proposal

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—What do you think of the wisdom of having women propose marriage to men? Some of the finest women I know are unmarried because they adhered to the old conventionality of waiting for men to ask them to be their wives. Sometimes men are bashful. Sometimes they are just stupid and don't see the charming women who are right under their eyes, and I believe that if women could do the proposing as well as men many fine people who are now single would be happily married. I am a man and I would like to hear a woman's reaction to this problem. C. E. K.

Answer:
There is no other one thing in the world that women crave so much as the privilege of selecting their husbands in a frank, honest, open and above-board manner instead of having to do it in the sneaky, under-handed way they do now.

But courageous as they are about most things, women are cowards about breaking conventions and they are more afraid of Mrs. Grundy than they are of God or man. I know of nothing more ironic than that women battered at the doors of the commercial world until they broke them down; that they fought like tigers for political freedom until they got the ballot, but they have never even tried to scrap the silly old convention that refuses them the right to pop the question to the men they want to marry.

Yet, heaven knows, the right to hold down a job or to vote is a poor thing compared with the privilege of picking out your husband and the father of your children.

I believe with all my heart that no other one thing would do so much to promote general happiness and to stop divorce and the breaking up of homes as for women to be just as free as men to select their mates. There is no doubt that a great part of the domestic misery that we see all about us is the result of women having to marry their opportunities instead of their preferences.

Answer:
My earnest advice to you is for you not to think of marrying until the boy grows up and is in a position to marry and support a wife.

It is a sad and unromantic thing that marriage has a practical as well as a sentimental side, and that unless the practical side rests on a good, solid foundation the sentimental collapses. Alas and alack, in spite of the poets, love isn't enough to marry on. You have to have a house to shelter you, clothes to wear, food to eat. You find out that after marriage you are just as hungry as you were before; that, no matter how warm your love is, it doesn't keep you from getting cold in blizzard weather. That kisses are a slim diet when your stomach craves roast beef and potatoes, and that you don't feel like talking love talk when you are wondering how you are going to stave off the landlady.

So what are you and your boy without a job going to live on if you marry now? What are you going to use for money? Are you going to take him and dump him down on your family, which is playing it pretty low on your poor parents? Or are you going to wish yourself on his people, who are having a struggle to live as they are, without any more mouths to feed?

You have a job, but are you making enough to support yourself and a husband? And what if a baby comes along and you have to give up your job? They do, you know, and the less people can afford them the more they have. Babies are such

Chapter 26
Smoldering Fire

Charlie's face was a study in the less gracious expressions. "What are you talking about?" he growled. "I'm working up, in my own inimitable fashion, to the fact that there has been another murder and that, thanks to Captain Flower, you're clear of it," Adam said.

They had evidently not heard of it. I sat in one of the concave chairs and smoked a cigarette while he told them.

The situation at last clear to his still befuddled brain, Charlie, much deflated, was making his graceless apologies to Captain Flower when Barney stood up.

"Sorry," he muttered. "Guess I'd better turn in." And without a good night he turned and stumbled down the hall.

Little Captain Flower sprang to follow him.

"I'll see to him," he told Adam. "Can you manage? I'd better help."

"I can manage," the little man said over his shoulder.

Mrs. Flower turned from her inspection of the mantel. "Flower!" Her piercing stage whisper traveled the length of the interminable corridor and a score of fainter whispers sighed back from the bare, bleak walls.

"Don't forget to remind him about the prize!"

"Well, really, this is turning into quite a night," Mrs. Flower continued brightly. "I do hope Gilly doesn't have one of his nightmares, because while he's very good with Nurse, there's no one quite like Mother when little boys are frightened in the night."

Her mouth drooped childishly, but only for a moment, then she turned to me with anticipation in her eyes.

"You've never seen Gilly, have you?"

"I don't believe she waited for an answer. Although, deplorably, I had never seen Gilly, still I could be made acquainted with him, as it were, by proxy. Certain concrete properties of Gilly could be made known to me—his height, his weight, his age, the color of his eyes and hair, his taste in cereals, in vegetables, in jokes."

Captain Flower returned with an air of duty well done and consulted in a low voice with Adam near the door. They took their departure at last, after protracted discussion as to the proprieties. Adam assured them that he was on the point of taking me home, that there was no need for them to wait.

"Now Charlie," said Adam when the creaking stairs were once more silent, "what do you know about this?"

As I had feared, Charlie was more than vague. Though he was plainly making an effort to remember, all that emerged was a memory of going back to quarters after dinner and having a couple of stiff ones. I was glad that he made no attempt to explain or to justify his actions.

"A Total Blank!"
Later—but how much later he had no way of knowing, nor where he had been in the meantime—there was the picture of Anne limp on the chaise longue in the dressing room and his certain knowledge that she was dead.

Adam did not enlighten him. "You remember Kay getting you into the library?"

"Vaguely," he admitted, not looking up from a penetrating scrutiny of the worn floor boards.

"And my bringing you back to quarters?"

Charlie shook his head. "I tell you the evening's almost a total blank." He looked up defiantly. "I may have shot her for all I know. Anne, I mean."

Momentary emotion blurred his features like breath on a mirrored reflection. Then he went on steadily.

"The other one—I guess that's out, if Flower's telling the truth. You understand that I don't know how long he was here . . ."

wanted to show this consideration? I dislike having to go to her house first more, I think, than I do giving them the first invitation.

Answer: It is very likely that the groom's family is wondering why they have never heard from you. At least this turn-about feeling occurs very often because few people realize, or know, that the groom's family is supposed to make the first move. Since the wedding is approaching I think it very important that you meet the groom's mother, and also his father and other members of his family if possible; and since they are not themselves taking the initiative I would, if I were you, write his mother a note inviting them to tea on some Sunday—if you think that would be the best day for them all to come. In any event, it is particularly important that you and the groom's mother or father or both of them be invited to the wedding.

Choosing A Suitable Present
Dear Mrs. Post: What kind of gift do you suggest sending to a couple celebrating their first wedding anniversary? The first year is supposed to be the paper one but what can one send in paper that would be a real present? Do people ignore the fact that it's the paper year and send whatever they please?

Answer: The people who want to send a real present—that is, a valuable present—do so and let the paper wrapping that encloses it count as the paper part. But people who want to send a nice remembrance can, nevertheless, send a very nice present of writing paper. For example, smart note paper of very fine quality, die stamped with their address and the die enclosed for their own use in the future. Another suggestion is bookplates, or for that matter, books. All these can be counted as items made of or in great part containing paper.

Don't you see that every dictate of common sense tells you that you must wait to marry until you can afford it? Don't you know that if you can't trust your boy friend to be faithful to you while he is in college you can't trust him anywhere in life, for the world, as well as a college campus, is filled with pretty girls and nowhere is a man exempt from temptation.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young man of 23 and would like to marry if I could find a wife who would be as indulgent and as careful of my comfort as my mother has always been. Where can I find such a girl?

JAMES.

Answer:
Nowhere. There is no use in wasting your time seeking her. There is no such animal.

Answer: It is very likely that the groom's family is wondering why they have never heard from you. At least this turn-about feeling occurs very often because few people realize, or know, that the groom's family is supposed to make the first move. Since the wedding is approaching I think it very important that you meet the groom's mother, and also his father and other members of his family if possible; and since they are not themselves taking the initiative I would, if I were you, write his mother a note inviting them to tea on some Sunday—if you think that would be the best day for them all to come. In any event, it is particularly important that you and the groom's mother or father or both of them be invited to the wedding.

Dear Mrs. Post: What kind of gift do you suggest sending to a couple celebrating their first wedding anniversary? The first year is supposed to be the paper one but what can one send in paper that would be a real present? Do people ignore the fact that it's the paper year and send whatever they please?

Answer: The people who want to send a real present—that is, a valuable present—do so and let the paper wrapping that encloses it count as the paper part. But people who want to send a nice remembrance can, nevertheless, send a very nice present of writing paper. For example, smart note paper of very fine quality, die stamped with their address and the die enclosed for their own use in the future. Another suggestion is bookplates, or for that matter, books. All these can be counted as items made of or in great part containing paper.

Don't you see that every dictate of common sense tells you that you must wait to marry until you can afford it? Don't you know that if you can't trust your boy friend to be faithful to you while he is in college you can't trust him anywhere in life, for the world, as well as a college campus, is filled with pretty girls and nowhere is a man exempt from temptation.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young man of 23 and would like to marry if I could find a wife who would be as indulgent and as careful of my comfort as my mother has always been. Where can I find such a girl?

JAMES.

Answer:
Nowhere. There is no use in wasting your time seeking her. There is no such animal.

Yes, the Policeman Has His Troubles and Expenses, Too

"Dad, do you think that Santa Claus will bring me a Sam Brown belt and a policeman's star for Christmas? You know, I am going to be a policeman when I grow up."

If dad is Mr. A. Citizen, son might get the encouraging answer that Santa would not forget him provided he is a good boy. But if dad happens to be a member of the Appleton police department, the answer might dampen the ardor of the young one for such police equipment and an attempt to change his longed for vocation might be made.

"Take it from daddy, son, this police business isn't all that it's cracked up to be. Sure, you can wear a nice blue uniform with shiny brass buttons and a silver-flashing star and Sam Brown belt. But the feeling of pride that that blue uniform and star gives you the first time you put it on and that chest expansion you had getting measured for the suit soon disappear, and the snappy uniform hangs just a bit as you walk a beat day after day or night after night."

Results
"It may be a thrill to catch some violator of the law with good police work, but most of the job is one of routine. Did you ever stop to think the number of steps a policeman takes during a year? For instance, look at these shoes. They were strong and sturdy when new, but they must soon be replaced. During the year I had them, son, they had to be resoled 10 times. And then it wasn't just an ordinary sole, but a double one. It costs $2.25 to have them resoled and 10 such jobs have cost your daddy just $22.50. That represents a lot of steps, son."

"Oh! So its a motorcycle officer you want to be! Well, son, your job might be just a bit different, but the results are the same, even if they do come from a different place."

"No, you wouldn't have to wear double soles on your shoes then. But you would have to have a double seat and double knees in your trousers. And even with this added wearing material, a motorcycle traffic officer wears out two or three pairs of trousers in a year. And this is in spite of the added precaution he takes in having the riding seat of his motorcycle padded. Now, a pair of breeches for a traffic officer costs about $13 and

Street Committee Shows Approval of Department Work

Council Accepts "Satisfactory" Report Although Mayor Objects

Menasha — A report by the street committee of the city council which expressed satisfaction that affairs at the municipal garage are handled in as business-like a manner as possible was accepted by the Menasha council at its meeting Tuesday night although Mayor W. H. Jensen declared that the report made the mayor "look sour." The mayor also declared that he was not satisfied as it looked as if the mayor doesn't know what he is talking about and that they might as well call the mayor a liar.

Mayor Jensen at the last meeting of the council declared that the heat and water at the garage had been shut off, that some of the stalls were filled with rubbish, that coal was stored outside and that some of the city trucks were kept outside. The council then instructed the street committee to make an investigation and to report at the next meeting.

The investigation was made the day following the mayor's charges. The report, which was signed by all five members of the committee and which was accepted unanimously by the aldermen, declared that the coal was handled as in all other city departments; that some equipment used in the summer on the streets and some supplies from the old school were stored in the garage in as good as order as possible and that only one old truck for which the city paid $50 was stored outside.

Outdoors Temporarily
The report also stated that the truck was kept outdoors only temporarily while a new partition is being constructed. Heat also was off during that construction but the water never was turned off.

The mayor pointed out that the street department had 36 hours "to comb its hair and brush its shoes" from the time he made his charges until the committee investigated. "You always clean up when you expect company, don't you?" He declared that the report might be right as the department had had time to clean up. Alderman Philip Michalkiewicz, chairman of the street department, admitted that some lumber had been hauled away from the garage when questioned by the mayor. Mr. Jensen replied, "You hauled away plenty and you know it. I was there. I don't see the same thing today that I saw then."

Agree with Grode
Alderman Karrow said that he had visited the garage a number of times and that they had done some house cleaning. He declared that it was better than it had been for the last six months. The mayor declared that he felt Alderman Grode was right when he suggested that all department heads be fired.

"I'm going to be mayor next year yet," the mayor challenged, "and I'm going to be pretty careful when I appoint the street committee. You might as well call the mayor a liar when you say everything is in tip-top shape and you know it."

The mayor denied that he was picking on the street commissioner but on the street committee and "I know what I'm hollering about. I don't want the committee or the superintendent to come to me for anything. If I find something, I'll let them know about it."

Because the special committee of Alderman Karrow, O'Brien and Tuchscherer has not completed its investigation of the relief department, no report will be presented until the next regular meeting. Alderman Walter O'Brien declared, O'Brien has sponsored the investigation and has suggested that administration of relief be handled from Menasha instead of through the Twin City set-up. He did report that Harry Bishop, administrator of the relief department, receives $135 per month, that the two case workers get $80 a month plus $15 mileage and that telephone bills amount to $9 per month.

Oppose Sewer Service
The aldermen repeated their stand against giving sanitary sewer service to persons living north of Ninth street in the town of Menasha. The mayor declared that it seemed "that the water and light department encouraged building in the town of Menasha because it was quick to give water service, making it difficult for the council to say no."

The mayor suggested that an investigation should be made and those who live in the town of Menasha should be made to pay a sewer tax. Alderman Tuchscherer said that it was a question of the water and light department changing its policy and not a question of the water and light department. The Twin City sewerage commission and the ordinance committee of the council are to meet on the matter Thursday afternoon. Menasha has a tax rate of $4 per acre while the town of Menasha has approximately $6.

The discussion started when Alderman Sauter declared that at 10 o'clock and been found that the tax on the sewer had the right to tap into the sewer from the town of Menasha. Sauter moved that the line be disconnected and the aldermen agreed. City Attorney Edward C. McKenzie said that he had gone through the council minutes.

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent for its editorial, circulation and advertising departments is located at 510 N. Commercial street and the telephone number is 4100. News items, copy or orders for advertising and orders for subscriptions may be left at the office or may be telephoned. This number may be called before 7 o'clock in the evening.

DIES IN SLEEP

Hudson, Wis.—P. Spencer Haven, attorney general during the administration of Governor Emanuel L. Philipp, died in his sleep last night. He was 70 years old.

Haven was born in Iowa, coming to Wisconsin in 1880. He taught school four years. He was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1895.

Governor Philipp appointed Haven attorney general in 1918, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Walter C. Cowen, who took a seat in the supreme court. Haven served until 1919. In Hudson, he conducted a law practice.

From 1927 through 1935 and also had checked the water and light department records but could find no agreement between the city and Mr. Dombrowski.

Accept Resignation
The police and fire commission reported acceptance of the resignation of John Stommel from the fire department as well as the pension board's recommendation that Peter Heup and Henry Wipoldt be retired from the call fireman list. The recommendation that the two retiring men, who have served a combined total of 73 years, be paid in full until May, 1939, was accepted. William Akstulewicz was approved as a paid fireman to be on probation for a year at a salary of $100 a month.

Alderman Karrow questioned whether the police squad car should go out of the city as he understood it had been struck by a drunken driver on Plank road outside the city limits. Alderman Edward Zeininger explained that part of the regular patrol of the squad car is out to the municipal beach. Police Chief Alex Slomski said that the car was returning from that patrol and stopped to investigate a stalled car when the accident occurred. The city attorney pointed out that the men not only are policemen but also are constables and might be called out of the city.

Regulations for the use of the city skating rinks were recommended to the park department on motion of Alderman C. J. Oberwieser. He suggested that hockey playing be forbidden except during certain hours, that youngsters with sleds be refused permission to use the rinks and that a 10 o'clock closing hour be set.

Mayor to Buy Signs
Because no report has been received from the company which was to furnish the street signs for the city, the order was cancelled by the council and the mayor was given the power to buy the signs. He declared that he could have them in three days. Concurring with Neenah aldermen in the need of widening the end of Nicolet boulevard to facilitate turns in case of a fire on Lake road, Mayor Jensen appointed the two third ward aldermen, M. J. Grode and William Karrow, Peter Kasiel, street superintendent, and Al McMahon, city engineer, to confer with the Neenah committee.

The Marathon Paper company was given permission to move the sidewalk on River street about a foot farther into the road to facilitate proposed construction of a new building. The company pointed out that the new building would eliminate a railroad siding, street parking and traffic congestion.

A bill of $171 from the city of Milwaukee for the lights and signs at the safety islands at the Dun corner was allowed.

Menasha Council Approves Monthly Payment of Taxes

Adopts Installment Plan For Assessment on Real Estate

Menasha — Property owners of Menasha again will have an opportunity to pay their real estate taxes in monthly installments as a result of the ordinance adopted by the Menasha council at its meeting Tuesday night in the city hall. The time for payment of real estate taxes was extended to March 1, 1939, and for personal property to Jan. 31, 1939.

If 20 per cent of the total real estate tax on a piece of property has not been paid by March 1, the tax will be declared delinquent and the customary legal steps will follow. However, if a property owner has paid 20 per cent of the total by March 1, the remainder may be paid in monthly installments of 10 per cent until the total is paid.

An interest charge of eight-tenths of 1 per cent per month will be made on the unpaid balance each month. The installments must be paid promptly by the first of the month, starting with March 1, or the tax will be declared delinquent. Personal property taxes must be paid in full by Jan. 31. Last year about 400 persons took advantage of the monthly payment plan. Not only does the system permit the property owner to pay the tax in installments but it also provides a monthly income for the city. The ordinance was adopted on motion of Alderman Philip Michalkiewicz with a second by Alderman John Eckerich.

HERMENE'S Wishes You, One and All-

MERRY CHRISTMAS! Say it to everyone in your household when you awaken in the morning. Merry Christmas! Call up your friends and let it ring cheerily over the telephone! After you open your own gifts, dress up in your most festive clothes, and go out ringing the doorbells of your friends and neighbors, while you sing out Merry Christmas! Add to the joy of receiving the joy of giving — and don't forget those less fortunate than you to whom a basket filled with everyday foods, or a few playthings for their fun-starved children, will brighten the winter's gloom, and help them to say—and know there's meaning to —Merry Christmas!

When twilight brings the illumination of electric lights playing on the snow, and when cold and dusk lead to the lighting of the fireplace; there's the time to fill the punch bowl, gather 'round you those nearest and dearest while you harmonize in singing the grand old Christmas carols. Then, when evening's done, and you've closed the door after the last departing guests, and happily tired you're ready for sleep, in your own heart will echo like a lullaby the refrain — Merry Christmas! Merry Christmas! Merry Christmas!

Jane Wyman—hops over Hollywood hills in her stream-lined plane—delivering Christmas gifts to her friends—and, though she wouldn't like it to be told, to a lot of kiddies who would otherwise look in vain for a visit from Saint Nick. Jane's next appearance will be in "Gantry the Great," a film which will center around the remarkable horse, Elmer Gantry, whose racing and jumping feats are accomplished in spite of the fact that he is stone-blind.

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood — Dick Powell and Joan Blondell—just as I predicted long ago in this column—have compromised their contracts with Warner Brothers and walked out to join the free-lance ranks. The reasons for their dissatisfaction are not secret — Dick wanted to escape those insane singing roles; Joan, having been doomed by the studio to play nothing but semi-slapstick, wanted a chance at dramatic parts. It seems to me that the Warners are guilty of poor business judgment in letting them go without first giving them a trial in the kind of pictures they wanted to make.

Both Dick and Joan have established box-office value and millions of loyal fans. They are both experienced troupers. Dick's personality is so appealing that he has carried some very dismal productions into the profit columns. Joan was a hit in heavy drama before she won recognition as a comedienne. The enormous amount of money necessarily spent in the development of screen stars had already been invested in their case. Warners had everything to gain if Dick and Joan emerged from experimental pictures as dramatic stars. And, on the other hand, if they had failed to live up to their own convictions, their personal popularity would have guaranteed their pictures against heavy loss.

As a fan, I regret the short-sightedness of those producers, for they are recklessly throwing away personalities that I have learned to like, and I know from disappointing experience that about eight out of ten of the substitutes they will offer me will prove unpalatable. I wish the Warners would read that old fable about the dog and the bone.

ODD-FORMATION: One of Hollywood's two finest art collections belong to Binnie Barnes, specialist in "moll" roles. Ronald Colman is the only star whose picture contracts stipulate that he can dictate the "billing" to be given to his supporting cast. Odd hobbies: Nelson Eddy carves human figures out of balsa wood. Too impatient to wait for real flowers to cover the retaining wall of her new home, Marie Wilson had a scenic artist paint roses on the concrete. Most of the insects you see in pictures are supplied by a specialist named Cliff Baker — he once delivered 5 tons of grasshoppers for a single production.

Lewis Stone's make-up case is one of the saddle bags he used as a cavalry officer in the Spanish-American war. Despite the nonchalance with which Hollywood talks of tremendous grosses, only ten pictures in the history of the industry have taken in $3,000,000 or more. Glenda Farrell made her stage debut at the age of seven as "Little Eva" in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Those break-neck dashes through traffic are photographed by cranking at half normal camera speed—when projected at ordinary speed thirty-mile-an-hour traffic moves at sixty.

John Gilbert's bed is now the feature attraction in the honeymoon suite of a Pennsylvania hotel. Love scenes are such a mental hazard to Fred MacMurray that he always insists on them being shot first—after they're out of the way he can relax. That sway-backed nag you've seen in so many comedies earns $50 a day and has made his owner more than $15,000 in the last six years.

That much-publicized friendship between Doug Corrigan and Robert Armstrong has struck a snag. Seems that the other day Bob blew his lines in a scene, not once but in three successive takes. Being noted for his glibness in handling dialogue, he felt very bad about the whole thing — looked so disconsolate, in fact, that his pal Corrigan came over and gave him a pep talk beginning with "It's easy" and concluding "Go to it, old man." The impulse was sincere, but the moment was ill-chosen. "Thank, Doug," snapped Bob. "Next time you want some advice about flying, just come to me." Damen and Pithulas have been exchanging plares instead of compliments ever since.

They shot one of the "hot-test" scenes in "The Castle" today. Fred Astaire was sitting in a barber's chair, getting a shave. The barber, busy chewing the fat with another customer, held the low too close and —pouf — Fred's hair went up in one big burst of flame. It's an effective piece of nonsense, made possible by the use of an asbestos wig, but I couldn't quite swallow the publicity effusions about Fred's nerve in doing it. I have a friend who works for the man who made the toupe—and it's my friend who deserves the Red Badge of Courage. He tried the stunt four times without injury but the studio would take a chance. Hollywood's full of such unsung heroes.

Ralph Byrd's a newcomer in Hollywood, but evidently a shrewd observer. I like his latest bon mot — "The difference between fame and in the in-law."

Coal Gas

It is hard, if not impossible, to smell "natural gas." This means that people do not notice any odor when it escapes.

Gas without an odor is dangerous, and this is why gas with an odor often is added to natural gas in places where it is used for a fuel. A gas burner may be open when there is no flame, and people in the house should at least have the warning of being able to smell the gas. Otherwise the leak might not be discovered, and there might be an explosion, or the whole family might be asphyxiated.

Condensing Pipes in Gas Works

Natural gas comes from wells in the ground. Some years ago, I visited a large boarding school located near the border of Indiana and Ohio. While I was talking with the principal, he said:

"When we were drilling to obtain water, we went quite deep without finding any. Then we struck something else—natural gas! Since that time we have been doing all our lighting and cooking with gas from the well we found."

Natural gas, the name tells us, was made by Nature. In many cases it is found over pools of oil in the rocks.

Like other gases used for fuel, natural gas is made up of more than one kind of gas. Methane, a gas without color, is the main part of natural gas, but there are other parts, such as nitrogen and hydrogen.

Coal gas is taken from coal which is heated in fire-clay retorts. The gas passes out through pipes, and then is purified and condensed. Tar, sulphur and ammonia are among the things taken out of the gas when it is purified. Coal gas is composed chiefly of hydrogen and methane.

Gas is stored in huge tanks, then is sent through pipes to our homes. We may cook with it, and we may use it as a furnace fuel.

"Water gas" is another interesting fuel. It is produced by letting steam pass over beds of red-hot hard coal or red-hot coke. The flame from water gas is blue.

One trouble with water gas is that it does not have an odor. Another trouble is that more than one-third of it is deadly carbon-monoxide. Coal gas often is added to water gas to give it an odor.

No matter what kind of gas we may use for cooking or heating, the fuel really comes from the inside of the earth. Whether the gas is taken from coal, or from a gas well, the fuel power was stored up long ago.

New York —(P)— A tail spin in aviation shares gave the stock market uneasy moments today and prices mostly headed a little lower. Some aircraft shares at one time were off more than 2 points but they recovered a bit with the list generally in late dealings. Lacking more adequate explanation for the iniquation, some brokers ascribed the drop in aviation shares to profit-taking following recent speculation for the rise on prospects a big air defense program would be presented to the new congress. Skeptics have been suggesting actual aircraft spending for the army and navy may not be anywhere near the high figures mentioned in some quarters.

In bonds and commodities, the year-end drift continued and narrow changes were the rule.

Transactions in stocks approximated 1,100,000 shares. The approach of the Christmas holidays appeared to divert attention from the market place.

Farm implement shares were wobbly following announcement of further price cutting on agricultural machinery.

In the curb, minor losses were recorded in American Cyanamid "B" Lake Shore Mines, Northern States Power "A," Aluminum of America and Electric Bond and Share.

Wheat at Chicago ended unchanged to 1/2 of a cent a bushel higher. Corn was 1/2 to 1/4 down. Cotton near the close was unchanged to 5 cents a bale higher.

At mid-afternoon, the British pound was $4.66 and the French franc 2.83 cents, both unchanged.

Build Dairying Through Quality, Farmers are Told

Program for Future of Industry Discussed At Meeting

Possible steps to build up the Wisconsin dairy industry were discussed by E. L. Aderhold, state cheese inspector, at one of a series of meetings being held throughout the state yesterday at the Appleton Vocational school.

About 50 farmers attended the meeting and voted on whether a quality building program for dairy products is advisable and whether they are willing to cooperate with such a program.

A corps of 15 speakers from the state department of agriculture and markets are holding meetings in 45 communities during this week to help farm folks "plan the future Wisconsin dairying."

Aderhold pointed out that in the 10-year period from 1927 to 1937 there has been a decrease of 31 per cent in the shipments of milk and milk for cream to points outside of the state. He also pointed to the higher standards being demanded in large cities where health programs are being carried out for dairy products.

More Consumption

"Wisconsin's big opportunity lies in increased consumption," Aderhold said. "The state is advertising dairy products and since 1931 has spent $285,000 to build up the Wisconsin State Brand of cheese."

The state's best brand of cheese is not the Wisconsin Standard brand but the Wisconsin State brand, he said. This brand demands quality and if farmers show a willingness to cooperate with a quality building program, the state will carry it out, he stated.

"There are six steps in securing quality milk. They are: healthy cows kept in clean barns, milking with reasonable care, using clean utensils, careful straining, prompt cooling to 60 degrees F. and holding the milk at that temperature."

An informal discussion was held on cheesemaking by those who prefer to make a poorer quality cheese and the farmer who fails to abide by regulations for clean milk. Under the proposed quality program the state would provide stricter supervision along with other methods to increase the sales of state dairy products, Aderhold explained.

Yule Program to Include Play At Center Evangelical Church

A playlet entitled "Unto One of the Least," will be given by Mrs. Harry Holz, Forrest Holz, Willis Schroeder, Marion and Lois Uhlenbrauck, Betty John, Robert and Elaine Lohrenz; a candle drill will be presented by Arline Rihm, Betty John, Elaine Lohrenz, Marion and Lois Uhlenbrauck; and others who will take part include the following: "A Welcome," Robert Lohrenz; "Two Stockings," Lois Uhlenbrauck; "My Plan," Allen Uhlenbrauck; "Two Views of Christmas," Willis and Harold Uhlenbrauck.

The program at the Center Evangelical church will have its program at 7:45 Saturday evening, Christmas eve, under the direction of Mrs. Myron Leitzke with music by Miss Nora Leitzke. The choir will sing and a 3-act play, "A Child Shall Lead Them," by Lucile Crites will be presented by the following: Sally, La Verne Krueger; Johnny, Forrest Breitrick; Mary Sears, Irene Schroeder; John Sears, Jr., Walter Schroeder; Williams, the butler, Weldon Maves; Betty Moore, Virginia Thiel; Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, Mrs. Maves; Mrs. Sara Sears, Mrs. Milton Holz; John Sears, the Rev. C. M. Schendel. Mrs. Weldon Maves will play a musical selection, and offerings will be taken for the orphans' home at Flat Rock, Ohio.

Farmers Can Cut Fixed Charges by Prudent Planning

Study Shows How to Reduce Ratio of Costs To Income

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Prudent planning by farmers makes it possible to reduce the fixed charges which take away so many of the farmers' dollars, according to a study of representative Brown county farmers just completed by College of Agriculture economists here.

After a study of a number of farms in Glenmore township, Brown county, D. R. Mitchell and Don Anderson found that successful farmers had low fixed costs on the crop acre basis which means they operated larger than average farms without investing much more in buildings and machinery than their neighbors.

Fixed charges such as interest, taxes, insurance, depreciation and maintenance usually amount to twice as much as operating costs, it was found. While the net amount of the costs can hardly be reduced, it is possible to reduce the ratio of such costs to income, report Mitchell and Anderson.

Out of their study of Glenmore township farms, they reported:

High Income Farms

"On high-income farms, fixed charges amounted to only 49 cents per dollar taken in, while on low-income farms they took 93 cents per dollar of receipts."

"For every acre of crop land, fixed costs amounted to $19.34 on high-income farms and $4.69 more, or $24.03 on low-income farms."

"For every head of livestock, fixed costs were $59.00 on high-income farms and $94.36 on low-income farms."

"These figures make it clear that the proportion of income going to meet fixed costs varies widely on different farms and indicate that skillful management can bring about what for practical purposes amounts to a reduction in these costs," observed the economists.

"After all, it is not the total of the fixed costs that is important, but rather the cost per 100 pounds of milk, pork, beef, or lamb, per dozen eggs, ton of hay or bushel of grain."

"These considerations bring out that farming as a business is not much different from other business enterprises. In any case there must be a good volume of business if the cost per article handled is to be kept low. The most successful farmers generally operated good-sized farms, and manage them so as to produce as large a volume of salable products as possible."

County Milk Cow Population Stays Almost Stationary

Census for Eastern District Shows Slight Drop

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—The milk cow population of the eastern Wisconsin economic district, which includes Outagamie county, has dropped slightly since 1934 but the census in Outagamie county remains almost stationary, it was shown today by state agricultural statisticians.

The eastern district includes Brown, Calumet, Door, Fond du Lac, Kewaunee, Manitowish, Outagamie, Winnebago and Sheboygan counties. Cow population in that area in 1934 was 323,700, compared with 321,100 at the close of 1937, the last figure available.

For the state as a whole, it was revealed, there are two cows for every three persons, and the statewide cattle census dropped slightly in the period. In 1934 there were 2,600,000 cows; in 1937 only 2,065,000 producing milk.

Production and price statistics were also reported for each county. Brown and Outagamie counties are typical of the dairy situation in the eastern district, it was shown. Brown county cows, 37,400 of them, produced 2,244,000 pounds of whole milk during 1937, which was sold at an average price of $1.65 a hundred pounds.

Outagamie county cows, 45,400 of them, produced 2,769,400 pounds of milk during 1937, which was sold at an average price of $1.59 a hundred pounds.

Number of milk cows in each of the counties of the Appleton area is given in the following table, as reported by the state agricultural statisticians' service:

County	Cows
Brown	37,400
Outagamie	45,400
Waupaca	40,800
Calumet	25,000
Manitowish	43,800
Sheboygan	42,800
Winnebago	33,700

Cheese-for-Christmas Suggestion Successful

The Wisconsin cheese-for-Christmas suggestion has met with such success that the original order for 10,000 Christmas cartons has been exhausted, and a second printing is on the press, according to a bulletin of the state department of agriculture and markets.

"You can also buy cheese from your local grocer and cheesemakers and wrap it yourself," Ralph E. Ammon, director of the department, suggests in anticipation of a sell-out on Christmas cartons.

"Anything that can be done to expand the market of the Wisconsin farmer is a move in the right direction. Agriculture, and especially dairying, is justly called the backbone of Wisconsin."

Testing Association Will Elect Officers

Members of the Outagamie County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, No. 6, will meet Thursday afternoon at the Elmer Kimball farm, Seymour. Officers will be elected. The meeting will be shorted to permit members to attend a meeting sponsored by the state department of agriculture and markets at Black Creek the same afternoon.

Advices Using Special Delivery on Yule Mail

Packages and cards to friends living several hundred miles away or farther should now be sent special delivery to assure their arrival by Christmas. Postmaster Stephen Balliet said today.

Balliet pointed out that there will be no deliveries on Christmas day. The postmaster reported that yesterday's cancellations amounted to 101,900, the highest so far this season.

Troop 2 Will Hold Yule Court of Honor Tonight

Dr. Harry C. Culver, Judson Rosebush, and Saburo Watanabe, Japanese student from Hawaii attending Lawrence college, will be the speakers at the annual Christmas court of honor to be held by Troop 2 of boy scouts at the Methodist church this evening.

Awards will be presented to various members of the troop, with Harry Braun's Eagle scout promotion as the most outstanding. The valley council boy scout office announced today that Carl Neidhold, Jr., has been added to the list of boys to receive awards tonight. He has passed his Second class test.

Forum Committee Will Plan for Next Meeting

The forum committee of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce will meet at 4:30 this afternoon in the office of Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary, to map plans for the next forum meeting late in January.

This afternoon's discussion will center on the identity of the sponsor for the meeting, another in the winter series which will be sponsored by members of the chamber and the city's service clubs. Joseph Koffend is chairman of the committee.

Acres Allotment Is Set for County

Total of 128,765 Acres Allowed for Depleting Crops

Outagamie county's acreage allotment of soil depleting crops under the 1939 agricultural conservation program has been set at 128,765 acres, according to an announcement made by Harry O. Wells, chairman of the state agricultural conservation committee.

Acreage allotments for every farm in the county are being prepared and it is expected that the farm allotments together with payment rates will be available for farm owners within the next few weeks, according to R. C. Swanson, county agent.

General payment, it is explained, will be made to all farmers in the county who plant within their allotted acreages of soil depleting crops during 1939. The general payment rate for Wisconsin and other north central states, is $1.10 an acre. Since this rate is based upon normal productivity of each farm, it is expected that payment rates will vary to some extent from farm to farm.

Wisconsin's acreage allotment of soil depleting crops under the 1939 program has been set at 6,486,000 acres. The national acreage allotment of soil depleting crops is set at 275,000,000 acres.

Outagamie county has been designated as a commercial potato growing county, and along with 47 other Wisconsin counties will participate in the potato program. Out of the county's total soil depleting acreage assignment 490 acres have been set aside as a potato acreage allotment. Payment rates will be based upon the normal yield of each farm and will be made at the rate of three cents for each bushel of potatoes in the normal yield.

Heil Confronted With Demands for More State Help

Requests for Increased Aid Jeopardizes Aim To Cut Costs

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—The question of state aids to counties for pensions, education, health, charitable institutions, relief and other purposes will be one of the steepest hurdles for Governor-elect Heil and his new Republican state administration to surmount in the next few months, a survey showed today.

The reason is that demands for increases in those aids are being made in the face of his aim to reduce the state budget.

Not only are there demands for increases in the aids appropriated biennially by the legislature, but there are also coming forward demands from cities and other local units for greater slices of the receipts of those state taxes which the state divides with municipalities, such as highway receipts.

Hint At Sales Tax
The unusually large amounts requested for aids for the next two years have led to suggestions by Governor Heil that the legislature may have to enact a sales tax on luxuries.

The large amounts annually made available to localities by the state government are generally considered to be the most important items in the state budget, not only because they aggregate such large sums, but because they have a direct relation to local property tax burdens.

Should the state aid appropriation be cut—as they have to be cut if the new governor is going to be able to fulfill his economy pledge—it will result in a direct relation to local property tax levies.

Ask More Funds
The picture on state aids, as presented by the state departments which administer them, to date shows these requests:

Pensions: 1939-40 $6,772,050, 1940-41 $7,909,125. During the year 1938-39, the state had available only $5,361,000 for pensions.

Relief: $2,500,000 a year for each of the next two years for direct aids to localities, exclusive of administrative costs which will amount to $1,500,000 extra. During the present biennium the total state relief fund available was only $3,000,000.

Moreover, that relief fund has been almost exhausted, although the biennium will not end for six months. About $800,000 remains, indicating that the first question to face the new legislature will be the problem of relief.

Education Requests
Education: $10,471,000 for next year, $10,316,000 for the succeeding year. State aids during the present year for educational purposes amount to only $8,162,625. Most of the increase is asked for high schools.

While only $1,369,160 was granted for this year for the cost of maintaining the chronic insane in county institutions, the state will be asked for $1,420,000 for next year, and $1,480,000 for the year following.

County tuberculosis sanatoria during the present year had available in state aids $650,000. It is proposed to boost this to $715,000 next year and to $750,000 the following year.

Because more counties added county nurses to their courthouse families this fall, the state board of health wants an increase in the amount of aid available for them, from $60,000 this year to $65,000 next year and $70,000 for the following year.

County Fair Aids
County fair aids, now amounting to $134,000, should be increased to $200,000 for each of the next two years, it was suggested.

Only aid request so far presented to the new governor which is not suggested to be increased is that for aids under the forest crop law, which the conservation department feels can remain at $150,000.

Even here, however, there is apt to be a demand for a greater sum because the amount available for many years has not been sufficient to pay the 10 cents an acre which is supposed to be paid under the law.

The new administration, it may be hazardous, will burn much midnight oil before Feb. 1 when the new budget bill must be submitted to the legislature. One of the toughest in local property tax levies.

Says Heavy Slash in Federal Budget Would Result in Revolution

Washington—(AP)—M. W. Thatcher, national legislative representative of the Farmer's Union, asserted Tuesday after a White House call that any attempt to cut the government budget by $2,500,000,000 or est problems in that budget, it has been shown, will be that of state aids, which directly involves local government finance.

Talking to reporters in the White House lobby, Thatcher remarked: "There would be revolution all over this country. The people are going to eat."

Thatcher said he had told President Roosevelt that to halt soil conservation and parity payments to farmers, under the present price structure, "would destroy the administration and his party." He added he had informed the president that the union was standing pat on the 1938 farm act as a basis for bringing parity income to farmers.

Looks Like a Quiet New Year's Eve for Philadelphia Folks

Philadelphia—(AP)—Whoopemaking in Philadelphia night spots New Year's eve must end by midnight. Mayor S. Davis Wilson reminded employers the next day is Sunday, and that the Quaker City has a 144-year old law prohibiting

"the practice of worldly employment in general" on the Sabbath.

Of 27 mills in the South for making pulp and paper from pine wood, 11 were built within the last three years.
